See War Time Fail to Save Power Here

Utility Official Declares Consumption Nearly Same As Before.

Like all other utility executives in Ohio, officials of the Mansfield division of the Ohio Public Service company today said that war time had failed to reflect any substantial reduction in consumption of electrical power.

R. E. Sneeringer, O.P.S. chief clerk, said that while the Mansfield office did not serve as many customers as it did before the war time, the per customer power consumption was practically the same. There was a normal consumption increase of about two per cent for this season of the year, he said.

Meanwhile as discussion continued in Columbus as to whether or not Ohio should return to eastern standard time, Gov. John W. Bricker said today that he may ask that a delegation from the state legislature visit War Production Chairman Donald Nelson in Washington and present a state survey which showed that war time had not caused a substantial saving in electrical power in Ohio.

Governor Bricker said that more than 12 utility companies in Ohio reported that their peak loads of power consumption came too late in the morning for Eastern War time to effect any saving.

The delegation from the legislature may ask Nelson to re-check his figures showing power savings under Eastern War time in Ohio, the governor said.

The saving Nelson cited, Bricker said, represented about .8 of one per cent of the 12,000,000,000 kilowatt hours of electrical output in Ohio each year.

"Not a single Ohio power company reported that Eastern War time had afforded them a substantial saving in power output," Bricker said.

Some of the companies reported that Eastern War time had increased their power loads in the early months of the winter, but that reduced loads in the summer compensated for the increases, he added.

The governor, meanwhile con-

VANISHING!

Coffee Stocks Reported Down To Fourteenth of Normal.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Even though coffee rationing has been put into effect, stocks of the aromatic bean today are just one-fourteenth of normal.

Officials of the industry disclosed that the supply, unless immediately replenished, is just enough for the next fifteen days even on the "cup-a-day" basis. Many wholesalers already have refused to accept ration stamp number 27 from grocers who must turn in this coupon before securing additional stocks.

Gravity of the situation was indicated by the fact that the coupons which became invalid for retail purchases last January third, will be worthless for conversion with wholesalers next Wednesday.

GOES ON TRIAL

French General Reported Facing Court for Attempt to Aid Yanks.

LONDON — (U.P.) — A French army general goes on trial for his life today at Lyons before a secret Vichy state tribunal accused, according to German propagandists, with trying to hold the beach at Sete, southern France, Nov. 8 so he could aid an American army which he believed was invading France as well as French Africa.

It was alleged that Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny had rallied a force of 200 patriotic troops and there were intimations that in addition he had organized a secret body in southern France to aid an American landing.

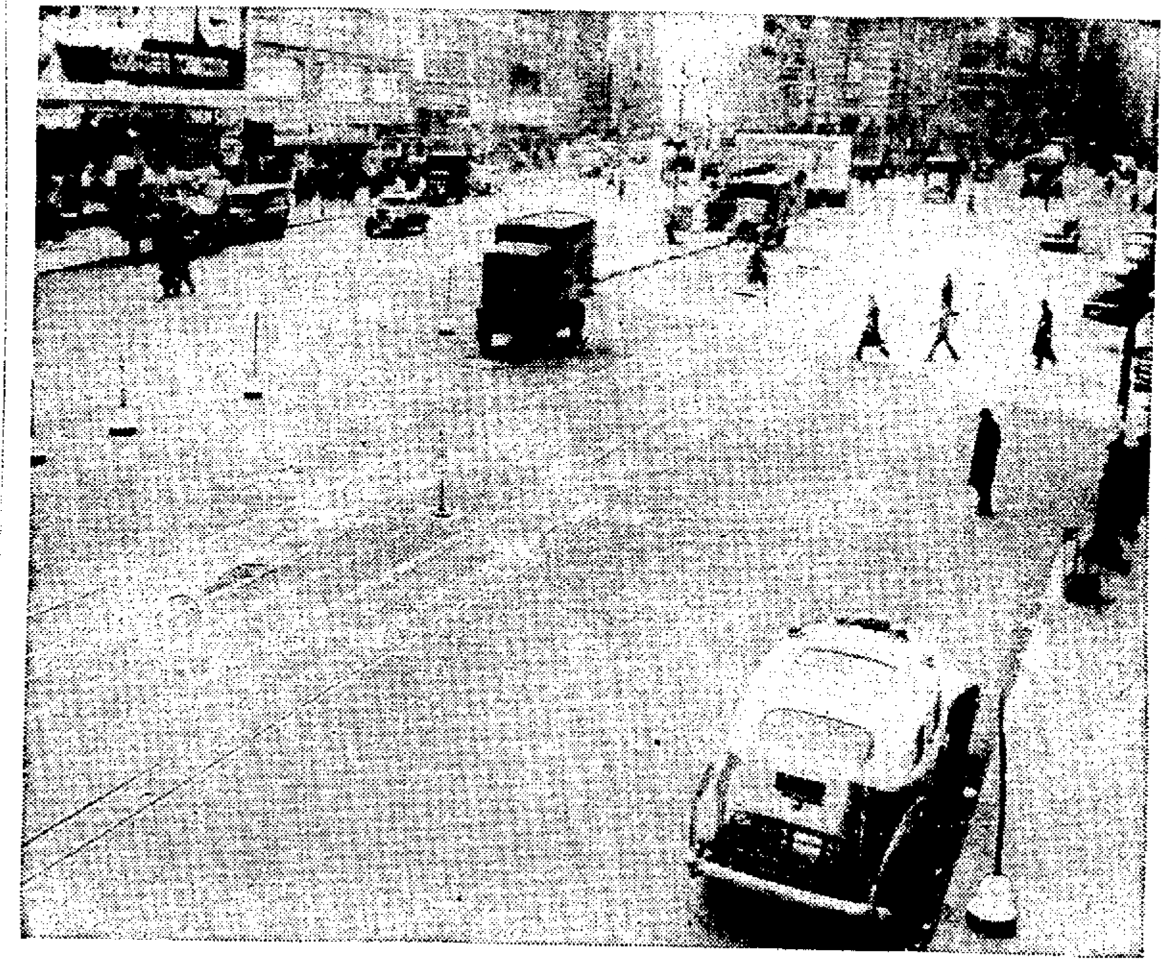
GETS DOCTORS

Nation To Have 5,000 New Physicians In March.

CHICAGO —(INS)— The nation's medical schools will graduate more than 5,000 new physicians in March, three months ahead of peacetime schedule, Dr. Fred C. Zapffe, executive secretary of the Association of American Medical Colleges, said today.

The University of Illinois school of medicine will graduate the largest class in the country—150 students.

This Is Times Square--No Pleasure Driving



This doesn't look much like one of the world's busiest intersections, but it is—Times Square in New York. Lack of automobile traffic is accounted for by the Office of Price Administration's drastic order banning use of gasoline for any pleasure driving in the Atlantic seaboard states. There even seems to be a scarcity of pedestrians.

JUDGE SENDS 3 TO PRISON

Delays Disposition In Three Other Cases When 12 Enter Pleas to Charges.

Three men were sentenced, two were placed on probation and disposition of three other criminal cases was deferred by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court this morning when 12 persons were arraigned on grand jury indictments. Hearings of those who entered pleas of not guilty were set for the week of Jan. 18.

Lewis Layton, 33, against whom a "secret" indictment was returned was released on $250 bond last night after he pleaded not guilty to a grand larceny charge in connection with the theft of parts of a Neon sign at the Eureka club, now out of operation, on Route 30-S. He was arested yesterday in Upper Sandusky.

Longest of the terms imposed by Judge Huston this morning were those of one to 20 years given Eddie Kahill, for forgery, and Charles Minner, for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. Both were sent to the Ohio State Penitentiary. Minner, who was on parole at the time he stole the car, told the court he had been on parole on three previous occasions but "got bad breaks." He admitted stealing the car of Don Hendrickson, reformatory guard to

WOULD LOWER QUALIFICATIONS

McNutt Thinks Army, Navy, Marine Standards Too High.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt is seeking to standardize physical and educational qualifications of the armed forces, it was learned today.

He was said to feel that it is "inevitable" the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard must adjust standards to permit induction of men with lesser physical and educational attributes than they have demanded in the past.

He believes the army could lower its physical standards to some degree and the navy, marine corps and coast guard—whose physical and mental requirements are higher—could lower theirs even more.

Boards Get Orders to Send Men to 4 Service Branches

Richland county selective service boards learned today that their February calls will be for men for the army, navy, coast guard and marine corps but it will be unnecessary to dip deeply into the married man reservoir to fill the quotas.

Tentative figures place the Board 1 quota between 40 and 45 men while the call to Board 2 will approximate that figure. The call to Board 3 is slightly higher than the January order and will be slightly in excess of 130 inductees.

All boards announced today that they are operating on the government's new 48-hour week basis. Board 2 is open Monday through Saturday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. while the other boards have an 8 to 4:30 schedule, taking a shorter noon hour.

The estimates received here from selective service headquarters in Columbus do not break down the quotas between the army and navy as that phase of the new program is being worked out at Washington.

Assignment of naval officers to the Fort Hayes military establishment, however, does not mean that men will be inducted into the navy, marine corps and coast guard through the Fort Hayes reception center, which now receives army inductees from parts of Ohio and West Virginia.

It was considered more likely that navy inductees would be sent to an existing naval center, possibly the Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Chicago.

Registrants will be given an opportunity to select the service they wish to enter, under present tentative plans. The choice will be limited because the three naval branches require considerably fewer men than the army.

On the basis of present strength in the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard, it appeared likely that one out of every three or four men called up would enter one of the naval branches while the rest will go into the army.

HURRIES IT

Biddle Asks Quick Hearing on Suit Against AP.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Attorney General Francis Biddle today filed a petition in federal court here asking that the government's anti-trust action against the Associated Press be expedited and heard by a court consisting of at least one circuit court of appeals judge and two federal judges.

The usual procedure is for a single federal judge to hear such cases.

Asserting that the case was of "general public importance," the attorney general asked that it "be assigned for hearing at the earliest practical date and in every way expedited."

14 KILLED AS AIRLINER BURNS

Lisbon Reports British Plane Catches Fire In Air.

LISBON—(AP)—Fourteen or fifteen persons were killed today when a British passenger airliner caught fire in the air and then exploded as it fell into the Tagus river at Caborouivo.

The dead included the British crew, three Portuguese women, a customs guard and Portuguese employes of the Pan-American airport, near where the accident occurred.

The plane arrived Wednesday from England.

4,000 MORE MINERS STRIKE

Quit Anthracite Fields As War Department Seeks Settlement.

WILKES-BARRE — (INS) — Four thousand more miners joined the wildcat dues strike in Pennsylvania's anthracite fields today while the war department sought to end the 10-day-old "holiday."

The walkout closed three more Lehigh Valley Coal company mines and one colliery owned by the Glen Alden company, largest hard coal producer in the nation.

The first break in the ranks of the strikers appeared when the Truesdale local union announced that its members will return to work Monday, passing through picket lines if necessary.

FOUR GET MEDALS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—For saving military equipment and assisting a fellow soldier to safety when a gasoline tank-trailer caught fire last Sept. 5 in Texas, Private Phillip De Luca of Magnolia, O., and three other army air force members have been awarded medals, the war department announced.

CHURCH CENSUS TO REACH ALL HOMES IN CITY

Movement Called Mansfield's Greatest In 25 Years of Religious Activity.

SET UP DETAILS

2,400 Workers to Make Check In February Under Block Plan of Canvass.

Termed the "greatest religious event in Mansfield in the past 25 years," a house to house census will be taken here early in February, under the auspices of a special committee designated as the Mansfield Religious Census committee, to determine the number of people who have church membership, regardless of creed, and to register all individuals unaffiliated with any denomination so that they may be contacted by the church of their choice.

Plans for the census, non-sectarian in nature, were outlined last night at a meeting of ministers, religious leaders and laymen called by the census executive committee headed by Rev. Peter Young of the First Congregational church. Twenty of the 52 churches expected to participate in the undertaking were represented at the session held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms.

Date for the census will be set at an organization meeting, Monday night, Jan. 18, when the dates for two training sessions for workers will also be fixed. Originally the census was slated for Feb. 1, but was postponed because the date conflicted with the annual Ohio Ministerial association meeting in Columbus. The census-taking will be limited to a three-day period and emphasis will be placed on completing the registration the first day.

The method of operation was explained by Ralph Stanton, ap-

CHECK TANKS

Army Officers Investigate Reports of Tampering.

OAKLAND, Calif. —(AP)— At least 35 army tanks were rolled off a railway siding last night for intensive examination after army intelligence officers were informed they had been tampered with.

The seals on the conning tower hatch of each of the 35 was broken. Three seals, designed to insure delivery of the tanks in exactly the same condition as they left the factory, presumably were broken by several men whom nearby residents reported seeing acting suspiciously in the vicinity of the siding.

There was evidence that each of the tanks had been entered.

No military guards were around the flat cars carrying the tanks when residents of the area telephoned police of the suspicious actions of the men. Guards were posted immediately after the tampering was discovered.

The company's President William S. Jack said the check resulted from a two-day campaign among the employes, who are called "associates," and that every worker gave to the fund for the Warm Springs (Ga.) foundation.

POUND CONVOY IN LAE HARBOR

Allies Sink 3 Ships, Chase Others Into Port For Merciless Hammering.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA — A badly battered Japanese convoy—three of its transports at the bottom of the Pacific and a fourth damaged—was pursued into the harbor of Lae, New Guinea, and there, along with the landing area and other enemy beach installations, was given a merciless pounding yesterday by almost every type of plane at the call of the southwest Pacific Air Force command, an Allied communique reported today.

The Japanese, trying to reinforce their remaining New Guinea strongholds by carrying troops from New Britain to Lae, succeeded at best in landing only "fragmentary" troop elements, the communique indicated.

In addition to the three transports reported definitely lost since the convoy was sighted and attacked Jan. 6, 20 more Japanese escort planes were reported destroyed, bringing to 38 the enemy aircraft shot down in the action.

While the aerial hammering at Lae continued and American and Australian troops closed in on the only remaining pocket of Japanese resistance in the Buna region at Sananda, Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to Australia from the New Guinea battle front with high praise for the Australian and American forces under his command.

He awarded Distinguished Service Crosses to 12 American and Australian officers and said in an order of the day that the "victory which has been achieved would have been impossible of accomplishment without the invincible

Ask Them to Tell Truth About Growing Disaster as 20 More Towns Fall.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—The United States Air Force has struck one of the heaviest blows of the war at Bizerte, a vital Axis supply port, with big four-motored Flying Fortresses bombing it on three separate raids, it was announced today.

The attack coincided with the news from Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in North Africa, that U. S. Major General Carl Spaatz has been made commander of a new Allied air force on that front.

Spatz will supervise not only the 12th U. S. Air Force under Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle but also the RAF under Air Vice Marshal Sir William L. Welsh and such French units as may serve with the Allies.

Five American planes were lost, all P-38 twin-engined Lightning fighters.

The Fortress raids on Bizerte were said to have formed one of the most concentrated attacks of the campaign on a single target, carrying out their bombings despite ground fire and fighter opposition.

The bombers shot down four planes over Bizerte, which is rated among airmen as one of the hottest anti-aircraft areas in the world.

Enemy docks in Tripoli also were attacked.

Operating along the enemy supply line leading south from Kairouan toward Gabes, American medium bombers—B-25 Billy Mitchells and B-26 Marauders—left the trail in havoc in widespread raids on tank concentrations, railroads and airfields.

BYRNES TO ACT

Expected to Intervene In Synthetic Rubber Tie-up.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Economic Czar James F. Byrnes today was expected to intervene in the war production conflict which threatens the nation's 800,000-ton synthetic rubber program with serious delays.

A spokesman for Byrnes disclosed that the former supreme court justice will confer during the day with Rubber Director William Jeffers, who charged that the rubber program is being slowed by the lack of a "green light" on construction of plant facilities.

Jeffers has insisted that the synthetic rubber program be given the right-of-way over the high-octane gasoline, aviation and escort vessel programs.

Ailes, city health director was urged in a letter from Harter to recommend to the city health commission that the sale of horsemeat be prohibited "under any kind of regulations."

STOCKS SHOW IRREGULARLY HIGHER TREND

Corporation Dividends Drop 12 Per Cent From Mark Of Preceding Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Irregulary higher tendencies were exhibited by leading stocks in today's early market transactions.

At a fairly active opening gainers of fractions included Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Bethlehem, Standard Oil (NJ), Yellow Truck, and United Aircraft. Small declines were posted for Allied Chemical, American Can, Loew's, Chesapeake & Ohio and Paramount Pictures.

Market analysts noted the compilation of the commerce department which disclosed cash dividends paid by American corporations in 1942 amounted to $3,559,000,000 compared with $4,041,000,000 the year before. This was a drop of 12 per cent.

The department's explanation for part of the decline from the high 1941 mark was that in that year disbursements were expanded by the substantial clearing up of arrearages by many corporations.

HEAD OF FAMILY EXEMPTION

A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, is entitled to a personal exemption of $1,200 for the year if he can qualify as head of a family. A head of family is "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Examples of head of family status would be a widower or widow who maintained a home for a dependent child, or a son who supported and maintained a household for a dependent father or mother. In order to meet the test of actual support and maintenance as head of a family, the benefactor must furnish more than one-half of the support and maintenance.

The term "in one household" ordinarily means under one roof, but if a father is absent on business or a child or other dependent is away at school, or on a visit, the common home being still maintained the head of family exemption would still apply. Where a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding house while he lives elsewhere, the additional exemption may still apply. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family irrespective of the question of support.

The term "closely connected by blood relationship" applies to a person's progenitors and lineal descendants, to his brothers or sisters, where by the whole or half blood, and to his uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces. Irrespective of any legal obligation of the taxpayer to support such dependent relatives, a moral obligation to do so exists, and if the individual is actually supporting and maintaining in one household relatives of this degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected by marriage" with his step-sisters and step-brothers, but whether his right to exercise family control and provide for these individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same considerations apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law, and sister-in-law. First cousins by blood, and cousins of lesser degree, are not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship" as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain and support in his home a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of a family if the ward was not connected with him by relationship of blood, marriage, or adoption, nor is a taxpayer entitled to exemption as head of a family by virtue of maintenance and support of a child not legally adopted.

the east coast oil and gasoline shortage.

The statement came from R. L. Minckler, PAW director of supply, on the heels of a reduction in gasoline rations; a 10 per cent cut in home fuel oil rations for heating period three; a 25 per cent slash in commercial heating oil supplies and the ban on pleasure driving.

He asserted that "we'd need all the breaks"—in weather, military demands and everything else—to get by for the next 10 weeks as the Atlantic seaboard picture stands at present.

An official of the office of defense transportation said that "pleasure travel via taxicab must be eliminated," and disclosed that action to bring taxicabs under the east coast pleasure driving ban would be taken.

At the same time, an OPA spokesman conceded that plans to accomplish a further reduction in gasoline consumption were in the course of preparation for use in event that the pleasure-driving ban fails to effect the necessary saving.

It was reported previously that Petroleum Administrator Ickes had recommended a cut in "A" gasoline ration in the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

Meantime, the economics committee of the petroleum war council estimated that the prospective eastern deficit — before recent OPA actions cutting fuel oil and gasoline rations—was 345,000 barrels daily for February.

The decrease in the deficit next month is forecast because of anticipated completion of the Texas-Illinois segment of the 24-inch emergency pipeline being built to the east coast.

The OPA actions were estimated to have saved between 125,000 and 150,000 barrels, still leaving a sizeable deficit.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson ruled, meanwhile, that all dealers and secondary suppliers of fuel oil must sell any amount of their supply to any purchaser who presents the necessary coupons. No customer can be considered "favored" above and other, he said, except where a local emergency requires distribution of supplies according to PAW's priority list.

Remove 11 Bodies From Mine After Underground Fire

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—(AP)—Rescue workers early today recovered 11 bodies in the smoke-filled, flame-swept No. 15 mine of the Pursglove Mining company and continue a search for the last of 13 miners killed when trapped by an underground fire.

Frank Robinette, a mine motorman whose motor investigators linked with the blaze, was still missing.

The body of Guy Quinn was located a few hours after the fire trapped 13 of the 78 men working on the night shift Friday morning.

The locale of the fire, almost three miles underground from the mine mouth, was reached 22 hours after a mine motor caught fire and isolated a small section of the mine with 13 men behind it.

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

MY STARS, CHILD I'M ALL TUCKERED OUT - I'VE BEEN ON THE GO EVERY MINUTE SINCE YESTERDAY WHEN MR. ROBERT BROUGHT HOME HIS WIFE AND FAMILY
GEE, IT'S LOTSA FUN TO HAVE FOLKS LIVIN' HERE, TALKIN' AN' LAFFIN' AN'- AN' GIVING ME SO MANY ORDERS, I'M LEAPING FROM PLACE TO PLACE LIKE A MOUNTAIN GOAT.
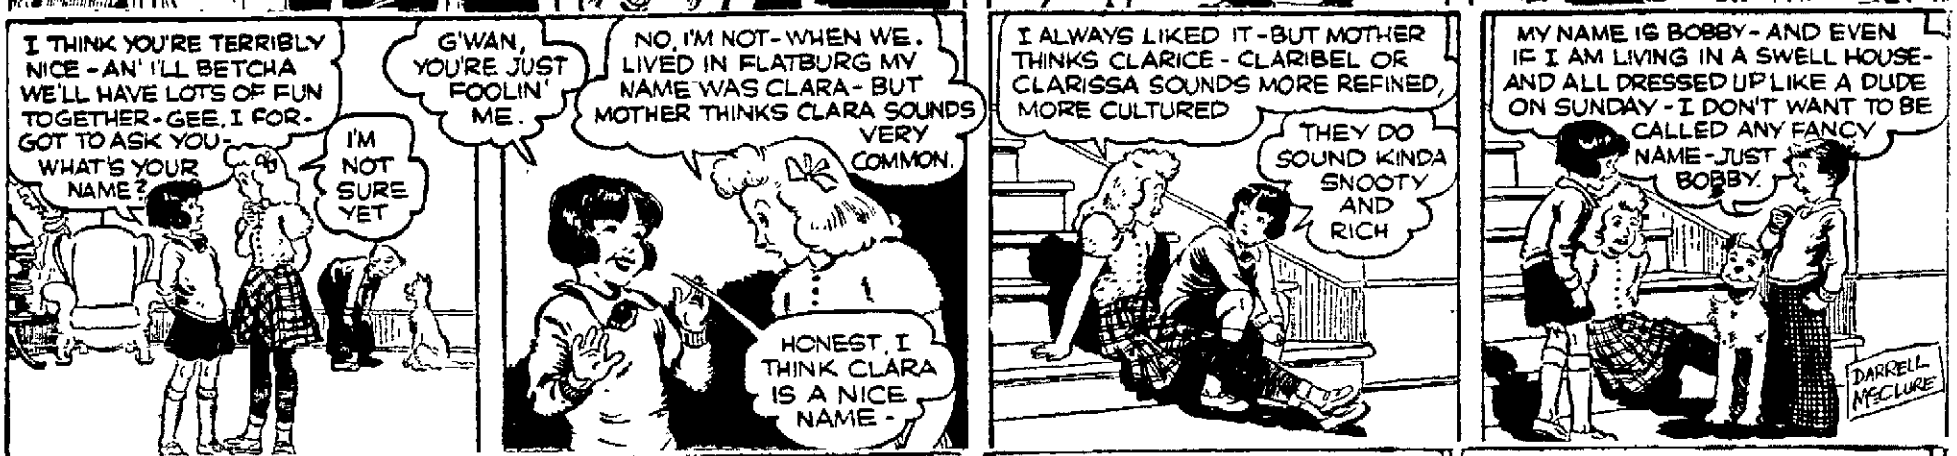
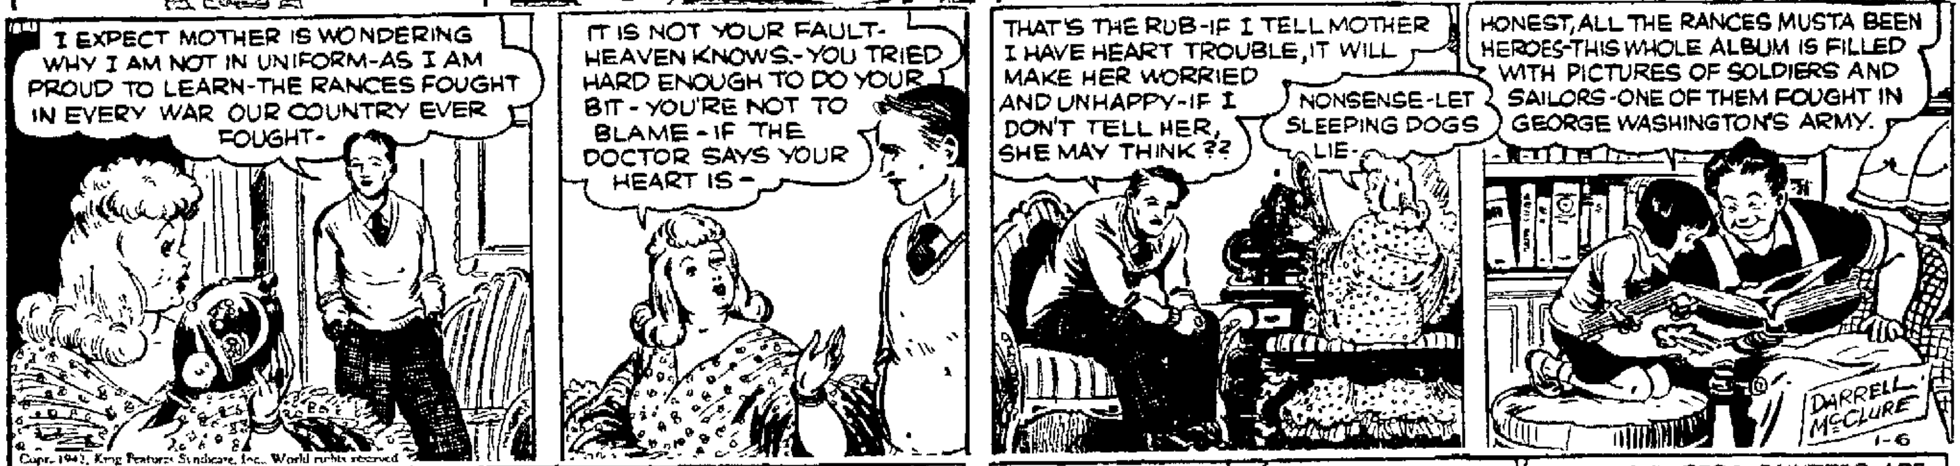
MR. ROBERT IS A FINE GENTLEMAN - BUT THAT WIFE SEEMS TO THINK I'M THE ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED AND SHE'S THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.
DON'T START 'DEARING' ME - YOU KNOW IT'S RIDICULOUS TO HAVE ONLY ONE SERVANT IN THIS GREAT, BIG HOUSE. YOU MUST SPEAK TO YOUR MOTHER ABOUT IT.
BUT, MY DEAR - I -
DARRELL McCLURE



I THINK YOU'RE TERRIBLY NICE - AN' I'LL BETCHA WE'LL HAVE LOTS OF FUN TOGETHER - GEE, I FORGOT TO ASK YOU - WHAT'S YOUR NAME?
I'M NOT SURE YET
G'WAN, YOU'RE JUST FOOLIN' ME.
NO, I'M NOT - WHEN WE LIVED IN FLATBURG MY NAME WAS CLARA - BUT MOTHER THINKS CLARA SOUNDS VERY COMMON.
HONEST, I THINK CLARA IS A NICE NAME -
I ALWAYS LIKED IT - BUT MOTHER THINKS CLARICE - CLARIBEL OR CLARISSA SOUNDS MORE REFINED, MORE CULTURED
THEY DO SOUND KINDA SNOOTY AND RICH
MY NAME IS BOBBY - AND EVEN IF I AM LIVING IN A SWELL HOUSE - AND ALL DRESSED UP LIKE A DUDE ON SUNDAY - I DON'T WANT TO BE CALLED ANY FANCY NAME - JUST BOBBY.
DARRELL McCLURE



I EXPECT MOTHER IS WONDERING WHY I AM NOT IN UNIFORM - AS I AM PROUD TO LEARN - THE RANCES FOUGHT IN EVERY WAR OUR COUNTRY EVER FOUGHT - IT IS NOT YOUR FAULT - HEAVEN KNOWS - YOU TRIED HARD ENOUGH TO DO YOUR BIT - YOU'RE NOT TO BLAME - IF THE DOCTOR SAYS YOUR HEART IS - THAT'S THE RUB - IF I TELL MOTHER I HAVE HEART TROUBLE, IT WILL MAKE HER WORRIED AND UNHAPPY - IF I DON'T TELL HER, SHE MAY THINK ??
NONSENSE - LET SLEEPING DOGS LIE -
HONEST, ALL THE RANCES MUSTA BEEN HEROES - THIS WHOLE ALBUM IS FILLED WITH PICTURES OF SOLDIERS AND SAILORS - ONE OF THEM FOUGHT IN GEORGE WASHINGTON'S ARMY.

FROM WHAT YOU TELL ME, YOUR FOSTER FATHER MUST BE A WONDERFUL MAN - I'D LOVE TO MEET HIM AND TELL HIM HOW GRATEFUL I AM FOR HIS KINDNESS TO YOU.
I KNOW YOU'D LOVE HIM, MOTHER - HE IS THE SALT OF THE EARTH -
OH, ROBERT - YOU MUST FIND SOME WAY OF COAXING HIM TO COME HERE. HE MUST BE LONESOME FOR YOU - PERHAPS, IF YOU WENT AND EXPLAINED HOW ANXIOUS I AM TO MEET HIM - PERHAPS HE MIGHT - OKAY, MOTHER - BUT I CAN'T PROMISE ANYTHING - DAD NEVER WAS MUCH ON TRAVELING GLORYOSKY-ZERO - PAINTERS ARE GRAND! THIS ROOM WAS ALL DARK AN' GLOOMY JUST LIKE IT WAS CRYIN' - THEN THE PAINTERS CAME WITH LOTS OF BRIGHT, HAPPY COLORS AND NOW THE ROOM LOOKS LIKE IT FEELS GLAD ALL OVER -

HONEST, MRS RANCE, I THINK YOU'RE GRAND, GOING ALL AROUND ALL THE TIME - HELPING POOR FOLKS - GIVIN' 'EM THINGS TO MAKE 'EM HAPPY.
HUSH, CHILD, YOU'RE THE ONE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE LITTLE THINGS I AM DOING. I'M ASHAMED TO REMEMBER ALL THE YEARS I WASTED - SELFISHLY, THINKING OF NOBODY BUT MYSELF - AND MY OWN TROUBLES
YOU COULDN'T HELP IT - YOU WERE SICK AND -
THANKS TO YOU, HONEY - I AM NO LONGER SICK, BUT I FEAR I AM STILL VERY SELFISH SELFISH? G'WAN, YOU'RE JUST FOOLING ME.
NO FOOLING, HONEY - I REALLY BELIEVE THE HAPPINESS I DERIVE FROM HELPING OTHERS IS GREATER THAN THEY DERIVE FROM THE HELP I AM ABLE TO GIVE THEM!

NONSENSE, CHILD - I AM GLAD TO SEE YOU HAPPY AND I ALWAYS DID LOVE BUTTERFLIES.
I FEAR I WAS PAMPERED TOO MUCH AS A CHILD - I NEVER KNEW THE MEANING OF THE WORD WORK, UNTIL I MARRIED OUR DEAR ROBERT - FATHER WAS A MANUFACTURER OF COSMETICS AND - MANUFACTURER OF COSMETICS? HUH - THAT MEANS HER OLD MAN WORKED IN A SOAP FACTORY.

BROADWAY

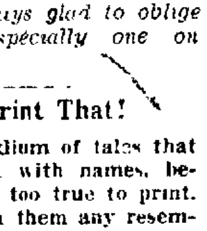
—By Dorothy Kilgallen

This column is dedicated to Pvt. Richard T. Habeeb, of the United States Marine Corps, who reads this column in Guadalcanal via the Bangor (Me.) Daily News, and has written me a letter enclosed in a bamboo stick to say that "You Can't Print That" is his favorite column, and to register a slight complaint because lately there haven't been enough of that Variety. Here you are, Private Habeeb. Always glad to oblige a reader—especially one on Guadalcanal.

You Can't Print That!

(A compendium of tales that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead — you've probably guessed right!)

One of the most fascinating tales of Manhattan concerns a Hollywood producer who is responsible for one of the biggest box office pictures of last year. Morton, let us call him, because that's quite a long way from his real moniker. Morton's name has appeared in the newspapers quite frequently during the past few months, due to his sudden prominence in connection with his hit film, and when he comes to New York on business or pleasure the gossip scribes keep their eyes peeled for the new romance in his life.



Kilgallen

The last time he was here—it was a couple of months ago—most people thought Morton had come to share a holiday with a beautiful lady of the screen who was bond-touring in these parts. But most people were wrong. Morton was here to dig up a wife and 17-year-old son that no one ever knew he had, because he'd deserted them shortly after he came here from Europe, and he never bothered to mention them in studio interviews.

The wife and boy were quite surprised when he turned up, wept a little over them, and told them he had come to take them out of their poverty and install them in the luxury of a Hollywood life. They were surprised to see that he seemed genuinely anxious to have them back.

He was genuinely anxious. He was genuinely anxious to get himself a couple of dependents, because the cold wind of the draft board was whistling round his ears and he knew it was only a question of time before he'd have to leave his mansion for a barracks.

Of course, his wife and son never guessed that. They went with him, quite happily, and were installed in his California home—dependents in every sense of the word.

Morton was terribly happy. Until two weeks later — when the draftee age limit was lowered to 38.

Morton, you see, is 44!

But you can't print that. Mrs. Morton and their son are more comfortable and contented than they ever have been in their lives, and don't you think it's nice that he's making at least two people happy—even if it was a mistake?

No city editor of fiction or cinema was ever as tough, arrogantly masculine and hard-boiled as Jack, the dictator of the city desk of a well-known gazette. Woe to the reporter who ever came back to him without a story; woe to the office boy who crossed his path when the rival paper had scored a scoop.

Since Dec. 7, 1941, he has interrupted his tongue-lashing of the staff at intervals to deliver his opinion of the brass hats who refused to accept his enlistment in the marines, the navy or the army because of minor physical ailments. It killed him to be chained to a desk when the world was on fire.

Well, recently Jack was called for limited service with the army, and his reporters, remembering what he promised to do to the Axis singlehanded, haven't stopped shrieking yet. Jack's doing recruiting—for the WAAC's!

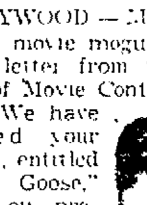
But you can't print that. Haven't you got a heart?

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Moe, the mythical movie mogul, got a legendary letter from the mythical Office of Movie Control. It said:

SIR: We have studied your script, entitled "Mother Goose," which you propose as a film production. Our conclusions follow to wit.



Coons

(a) On Page 20 there is a character designated as Little Miss Muffet. According to your writers, this person (1-a) "sat on a Tuffet" and (2-a) ate "Curds and Whey."

Before proceeding, it will be necessary for us to know of what material said Tuffet is constructed. If of silk or stuffed with kapok, it is forbidden as you well know by study of our Rules and Regulations, Volume 2,008, Chapter 198, Pages 276 to [illegible]. Also, you must indicate clearly in close-up, that said Tuffet is union-made.

AS FOR the "Curds and Whey," we must warn you that the film, IF we permit its production, can be exhibited nowhere on Curds and Wheyless Wednesdays.

(b) On Page 22 there is a character designated as Little Boy Blue. It will be necessary for us to know (1-b) if any significance not apparent in the script is attached to said character's cognomen. We suggest "Little Boy Red" would be more appropriate—as a subtle gesture of friendship to our Soviet Allies.

(c) On Page 40, there is special emphasis on a character yclept Mother Hubbard. There is emphatic reference to the alleged fact that "her cupboard was bare." This must be eliminated because (1-c) it reflects on the efficiency of OPA rationing. Also, we demand close-ups, inch by inch, of said cupboard's wall-space to establish beyond doubt what your writers claim, i.e., that "her cupboard was bare." We suspect her of hoarding in concealed compartments.

Nowhere in your script is it established that this Mother Hubbard (hereinafter we shall call her "Mother H" to save our valuable time and paper) has procured her Ration Books 1, 2 and 3. She must explain her delinquency in this matter at once to her local rationing board, and we enclose our Form X-2-B-C-2197 for her convenience.

(d) On Page 45 reference is made to a sequence entitled "Hey, Diddle Diddle." The title is deleted as frivolous. Also (1-d) you employ a character yclept "Cow" who is alleged to have "jumped over the moon." This character is cancelled because (2-d) all "Cows" have a patriotic duty to stay in the dairy and produce, and we cannot permit the bad example of such dilettante diddle-galk.

Unless you comply with these orders by last Thursday, your petition will be denied. You understand, of course, that we act in a purely advisory capacity.

(Signed) Office of Movie Control per Alexander Botchitup
Examiner of Scripts.

WANTS ARMY TO HAVE CONTROL OF DRAFTING

May Urges Change as Committee Favors Deferment of Married Men When Possible.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The whole subject of selective service may be reopened shortly by the house military affairs committee in a move to give draft supervision to the war department and prevent drafting of married men while eligible single men are available.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) said today he had received no proposals either from the war department or from selective service headquarters for draft law revisions but added the committee might promote some changes of its own.

May said he believed administration of the draft law should be placed directly in the war department instead of under the law manpower commission headed by Paul V. McNutt. He would support such a measure if it came before the committee, he said.

"The job of fighting the war and winning it is in the hands of the war department," the Kentuckian commented. "It seems to me the department should have control over who is going to be drafted to do the fighting."

The military committee went on record last year as favoring a change in draft regulations to assure deferment of married men, regardless of their dependency status, so long as single men were available.

The committee wrote into the 'teen-age draft bill an amendment, approved by the house, to put selective service on a statewide basis instead of on a local board footing. The senate, however, balked and the amendment came out in conference.

Representative Kilday (D., Tex.), sponsor of the proposal, said he would introduce it again next Monday, and May promised to support it.

May said he had received complaints that frequently married men necessary for farm or other civilian work had been inducted while in adjoining local board areas there was an untapped pool of single men who better could be spared to the army.

HURT IN MISHAP

Driver Injured When Auto Skids Into Tree.

One motorist was treated for cuts and bruises and a six-year-old boy escaped injury when struck by an auto as icy streets yesterday and last night brought eight traffic accident reports to police headquarters.

John S. Garver, 25, of 67 Mendota street, Globe Steel company employe, suffered facial cuts and body bruises at 8:30 p. m. when his auto skidded on Lexington avenue, jumped a curb and plunged against a tree. He was sent to General hospital by Patrolmen Richard Hecht and Glen Adams.

Robert Goddard, six, of 112 East Fifth street, said he was unhurt after he darted from between parked cars and collided with a fender on the auto of Lee Lamberton, 304 West Fifth street, on Elm street at 4:30 p. m.

Lamberton told police at 10:30 p. m. that his car was struck by one driven by Sam Christoff, 31 Kohler avenue, on West Fourth street.

Occupants escaped injury in the other auto collisions.

Senator Says California Germans Aided Pearl Harbor, Balk Plants.

(By International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — Evidence linking a California German group with a "ring of subversive agents" operating in Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack was disclosed today by State Senator Jack B. Tenney of Los Angeles, former head of the assembly committee investigating un-American activities in the state.

Tenney said that the California group was engaged in manufacture of military equipment for the government and revealed that "vital and strategic installations for the army and navy" were constructed by a German citizen. He added:

"In tracing leads developed in the investigation of residents of California, the committee has received a mass of data which leads us to believe there is a definite link between these individuals and a ring of subversive agents who were operating in Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

"The committee recently questioned a group of witnesses employed in one of the largest war manufacturing plants in California and has learned that there are now employed at that plant, in key positions, ex-officers of the German army and navy whose conduct has disrupted the morale of the plant to such an extent that its productive efficiency has been seriously impaired."

Up and Down THE STREET

A note of thanks for the menu covers made by art pupils at John Simpson Junior high school in cooperation with the Junior Red Cross council for navy's men's Christmas dinners was received recently in a novel form by the school officials. It was a post card addressed to "Mr. John Simpson" and read as follows: "Dear John—Just a short note to let you know that your 'Navy Menu cover' ended up at the mouth of the Mississippi here at Burwood, La. I really enjoyed having it and thought you might enjoy knowing where it finally was served on Christmas day. I found what I took to be your name on the back cover. It might be the name of the school, though. Best wishes to members of the Junior Red Cross." Ensign R. L. Wolcott, U. S. N. R.

All because of little boiling while a pint of oysters were being made into a stew, a pearl which Frank DeWoody, 208 Lexington avenue, found in one of the oysters appears to have lost its value. "Un-stewed" the bean size gem would have been worth approximately $75 according to jewelers. DeWoody found the pearl in his stew Thursday evening and the next morning took it to a local jewelry store. Although the value of the pearl was thought negligible, it was sent to a Cleveland concern for inspection.

Some of those crisp new dollar bills which many pupils at Woodland school had been saving since receiving them at Christmas time, were put into circulation today by the purchase of war savings stamps. After $20 more was taken up C. A. Divelbliss, principal, had to go to the bank to replenish the supply of stamps.

RAP NAMING OF 'BOSS' AS AMBASSADOR

New York Opponents Bring Up Paving Block Scandal In Hitting FDR Selection.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—New York opponents of Democratic National Leader Edward J. Flynn today joined forces to block congressional confirmation of his appointment as President Roosevelt's minister plenipotentiary to Australia.

Sidney S. Baron, secretary of the citizens committee to reopen the "Flynn case," left for Washington immediately after Flynn had made known his designation as United States ambassador to the southern Pacific area.

He said he would confer with senate leaders in an effort to force a public hearing to determine Flynn's character and fitness as a public servant in the Anzac area.

At the same time, Bronx Democratic chieftains assembled to choose a successor to Flynn as party chairman in that county.

Rep. Walter A. Lynch, long a Flynn favorite, was scheduled to be named county chairman at a meeting of the Bronx Democratic committee.

Baron, whose committee has fought Flynn since the so-called "Belgian paving block" scandal of a year ago, roundly denounced the honor conferred by the president on the Democratic national leader.

The "Flynn case" grew out of charges that municipal employes, working on city time, had installed 9,000 paving blocks in the courtyard of Flynn's Lake Mahopac, N. Y., estate.

Flynn said, "I have called a meeting of the Democratic national committee for Jan. 18, 1943, at the Mayflower hotel, Washington, D. C. At that meeting I will resign as chairman of the Democratic national committee."

Most frequently mentioned successor to Flynn as national chieftain of the Democrats is Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, a native of Pennsylvania who has lived in New York since 1925.

Work of Hospital Bureau Explained At Agency Meeting

The functions of the Mansfield Community Fund Hospital Bureau organized last March to aid low income families with hospitalization were described by Mrs. Verla Becker, Bureau investigator, for the Mansfield Council of Community Fund Agencies at the January luncheon-meeting Friday afternoon, held at General hospital.

Mrs. Becker explained the two types of cases handled by the bureau, the emergency case admitted to the hospital and investigated afterwards, and the pre-admission applicant, recommended for hospitalization by a physician, whose case is certified for payment before the applicant enters the hospital.

The Bureau has certified 74 cases since March 1, 1942, Mrs. Becker said, and rejected five because the patient had sufficient income or other means of paying hospitalization.

Mrs. Becker cited the cooperation given by local industries in verifying payrolls and by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross which lends assistance in cases involving service men's families.

Adjt. Paul Hoffman, chairman of the Council, presided at the meeting. The program was arranged by Miss Eleanor Bond, executive secretary of the Girl Scouts.

ASHLAND BOY GETS SENTENCE

The boy was sentenced in county juvenile court. Officers said he had been cited before for theft. He was taken to the county detention home to await removal to Lancaster.

Dale Carr, who was given a 60-day suspended sentence, reconciled his domestic differences with his wife and promised to provide for his family, the judge said.

Despite the Soviet jibe, Hitler's field headquarters still resorted to generalities and gave the German people no intimation that the once-conquering Nazi egions were suffering their worst setbacks of the war.

Thus the Nazi communique pic- ıred German troops as repulsing oviet attacks in the three major ctors — between the Caucasus d and the Don, near Stalingrad, d "in the Don district"—and in- cting "extremely heavy losses' counterattacks.

The Soviet communique said rmany's leaders had concealed truth of the retreat from their ople and "when it became no ger possible to remain silent, Hitlerite rulers decided to ak their silence but in such a nner that no one should under- nd anything."

Coinciding with this taunt to Nazi regime, bad news for Axis resounded on other fronts the global war:

whom he was paroled, while Hendrickson attended church.

Joseph Darnell King was sentenced to serve one to 15 years in the reformatory when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of breaking and entering the Fred Herring garage.

Placed on probation for three-year terms were Ernest Frith, 18, who told the judge he was guilty of embezzlement and James Dale Davis, also 18, who admitted stealing a car. The Davis youth, who had falsified his age to serve a term in the navy, indicated that he would seek to enter the army via the voluntary induction system at an early date. In the event he is rejected for service, he told the judge that he had a job awaiting him. He made an eloquent plea in his own behalf when questioned by the court.

Jesse Williams, 54, colored, caused a few chuckles in court when he said he was guilty of shooting with intent to wound William Lindsay, also colored, and knew no reason why sentence should not be passed but that he would "like a suspended sentence." His case was deferred until Tuesday at 9 a. m. after a colored friend informed the judge it would take that long for him to dispose of Williams' property.

Awaiting word from the commanding officer of the army camp near Dayton, where he was stationed, the case of W. L. Timmons, alias W. L. Anderson and Bus Anderson, was also postponed. He pleaded guilty to charges of car theft and forgery.

Disposal of the case of Grace Baker, on her plea of guilty to a charge of grand larceny, was also delayed pending hearing of the case against Beulah Whitcombe who said she was not guilty of a similar count. Both women were indicted in connection with the theft of a fur coat from the Montgomery Ward store.

Much interest centered in the arraignment of Douglas Bonecutter on charges of rape and robbery. Pleading not guilty to the counts, he will face trial for his alleged offenses Jan. 27.

Cases of Emmett Heuberger and Charles Spicer, indicted for non-support, will also be docketed for hearing on their pleas of not guilty.

Tom McVey, who is charged with receiving property allegedly stolen by Richard Wymer, who escaped from the county jail while awaiting the grand jury action, was not in court today. His arraignment will be set for a later date because of the illness of his attorney.

pointed director of the project by the census committee, and Gilmore Hiett, chairman of the planning committee. Stanton showed how census-takers would cover the city by using the block plan and by working in groups of four. The leaders will be designated as colonels and will be assigned one to each of the city's six wards. Additional colonels will also be appointed for South Boulevards, East Mansfield, Lincoln Heights and Avondale.

Hiett pointed out that one out of every seven members in all churches would be asked to be a worker and that an organization of 2,400 persons would be effected to conduct the canvass. His computation was based upon a total membership of more than 15,000 for all churches. Hiett suggested that ministers first ask for volunteers and then use the selective method to provide additional workers.

All ministers will be asked to supply the census executive committee with a list of their workers, complete with addresses and telephone numbers, at the organization meeting, Jan. 18. This group will then be called together for training on a night prior to the census and after ward colonels and precinct majors are trained.

The cost of the campaign, budgeted at $800, will be underwritten by the cooperating churches and the per capita cost per member will average about five cents.

A starting hour for the census will be set in the evening at a time when workers are most likely to find residents at home. "Registrars," Stanton said, "will be instructed to be courteous but brief when making their calls. This will be a factual campaign and it will not be up to the workers to reason why, should they contact persons inclined to become controversial."

The cards of all persons without a church home with a preference for a particular denomination will be turned over to the minister of that church for contact prior to Easter. "In this way," Rev. D. N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church said, "we will let people know we are interested in them and that the church of their choice is waiting for them."

He spoke of this being a psychological time for a movement of this kind citing the "vast number of people who are unsettled and unreached by any church. This will be a tremendus religious experience for people and every religious body and getting everyone to work in the movement will be a great spiritual undertaking."

Rev. Young presided at the meeting and prefaced the outline of the campaign by tracing the steps taken the past year towards the census. He paid tribute to the planning committee named last July and particularly to the chairman, Hiett, whom, he said, "is the real leader of the campaign as far as I can see and he is doing a magnificent job."

Other members on the committee were Rev. Roller, Msgr. R. C. Goebel, and Myron D. Miller.

Members of the census executive committee include Msgr. Goebel, Rev. C. L. Kern, Rev. Glenn F. Lewis, Rev. A. L. Linder, Rev. Roller, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, Conrad O. Diehm, Roger M. Gray and Miller.

Canton—C. E. Torrey, vice president of the Ohio Power company:

"So far as we can discern, this change in time has not affected our operations in any degree whatsoever."

Dayton—K. C. Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, JANUARY 9, 1943.

Drive as carefully tomorrow as you did last Sunday—remember?

Population of the earth is now estimated at 2,050,000,000—with about all engaged in war except the savages.

Greenwich, Conn., officials have ruled that human nerves are more important than barking dogs—which may prove a valuable contribution to neighborhood peace.

Farm Labor Problems Unsolved

FARMERS, although more prosperous now than usual, seem to be getting the worst of it in comparison with industrial workers and employers. They are suffering a serious labor shortage, as a result of 1,300,000 workers leaving American farms in the last year, and the exodus continues. This naturally makes harder and longer work for those who remain. A rather typical farm state reports hired labor on farms as 30 per cent less than it was a year ago. Altogether one-fourth of the family labor between the ages of 25 and 45 years has been lost. Much of this is made up by farm women and children and old people; but even with them doing the best they can, there is said to be a net loss of 8 per cent or more from last year's man-power.

There are mechanical difficulties, too. Farmers so far have been able to get repair parts for their machinery, but there is considerable delay, and it is hard to get new machinery. In isolated places it is difficult also to get gasoline.

In the matter of labor and pay, farm workers seem to be carrying rather more than their share of the load. The average farmer is reported as working seven days a week, including necessary chores and odd jobs done on Sunday, and may put in 12 to 14 hours a day. The hired man usually has a shorter day, for which he may get $15 to $25 a week, with room and board, but without pay for overtime.

The Public Is Entitled To Know

THE slot machine racket and other gambling operations in Mansfield, and possibly throughout Richland county, have become so complicated as a result of recent developments, that the public seems entitled to more complete information on the subject than has thus far been available through law enforcement officials.

It appears only fair that the people of this community should know, in an authoritative way, the extent to which either city or county officials ignore laws against commercialized gambling of various kinds, together with at least an approximation of the number of hundreds of thousands of dollars which are thus siphoned annually from legitimate business enterprises and vital war financing.

While ordinarily the offices of county prosecutor and sheriff follow a "hands off" policy in the enforcement of law in municipalities, it is not unusual for a common pleas court to instruct a grand jury to investigate gambling, or other forms of law violation, throughout the county, including cities, and, in the absence of effective functioning by municipal authorities, such action may later be deemed appropriate as a means of confirming or disproving suspicions that have been aroused by the odd happenings of recent weeks in law enforcement circles.

Optimism Not Yet Justified

THERE has been a wave of optimism lately about the duration of the war, which may be premature. It is based mainly on the victories of the Russians over the Nazis in Europe. That has been, and continues to be, a very great achievement. Yet peace may still be far off, and no downright prophecies should be taken at face value.

First Hitler has to be beaten and Germany reduced to military impotence. Presumably that will be accomplished this year or next. But the war for the defeat and control of Japan has barely started. All that there is to show in that struggle, so far, is the conquest of a few small islands in the vast reaches of the Pacific ocean. And after all the islands and archipelagos have been reduced, there will still be the Japanese home land to conquer.

Anatomically Considered

WHAT'S the matter with women? This old conversational topic has now received a partial answer. If it does not settle all the unsolved problems about femininity, it at least explains why they can do certain physical tasks better than others.

Their center of gravity is too low, says Prof. Granny Johnson of Denver university. By that he means that their weight is around the hips, whereas a man's is in his chest. A woman's heart is smaller than a man's. That is why she can never hope to run as fast as a man, or compete with him in other forms of athletics. In tests of endurance that do not require an extensive breathing apparatus, such as standing for a long time while nursing an invalid, women do much better than men.

Follow Maxim of Old Romans

DIVIDE AND CONQUER." That was the maxim of the old Romans, a people who knew how to create and maintain an empire. Ever since their day the advice has been constantly in the minds of would-be conquerors.

Certainly the Nazis follow it. In every country they have prepared the way for their armies by stirring up differences between honest men, or by bribing traitors. Since the German conquest there has sprung up all over Europe the baleful crop of Quislings, Norwegians, Dutch, Frenchmen who do Hitler's bidding.

The same process seems to be at work in Yugoslavia. Here General Draja Mihailovitch's rebel army has conducted operations that almost reach the magnitude of a second front. Now he is threatened by a Communist party, and the differences between the rival movements have risen at times to pitched battles.

While hunting for an adhesive for surgical tape, a couple of chemists discovered a remarkable new sponge rubber—and any day now, a bride experimenting with a biscuit recipe may hit upon an indestructible paving material.

"Ignorance in a democracy at war is as dangerous as a fifth column, and prejudice is as fatal as treachery," says William Sloane, New York publisher.

The old version recorded it as "milk and honey" but present visions of a happy world would probably substitute a flow of coffee and butter.

Rubber Stirs Interest In Tropics

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam is learning the tropics today as he never knew 'em before. He had an idea that southern Mexico, Cuba and Panama had educated him, but those experiences were mere primary training.

Our yearning for rubber is what so intensely interested us in the subject.

When we got the stuff from the Dutch East Indies we didn't concern ourselves as to the then source of its origin. We simply bought, paid for and brought back shiploads of the gum, leaving the Dutch and the East Indians to do the worrying as to the cultivation and harvesting of it.

It would have been a bright idea if we'd been considerably more thoughtful relative to a new world supply of it.

The trees it oozes from are thick up and down the Amazon valley, but it requires quite a few years to develop a tree up to its maximum output of the juice. Moreover, a tremendous staff of workers has to be created, to go around tapping the trunks of 'em, and delivering the goo to headquarters.

Manpower is scarcer up the Amazon that it appears to have been in the East Indies.

It can be recruited somewhat by good pay to available natives, but the difficulty's to keep 'em alive after they've mobilized.

That rubber valley has a larger assortment of hot-weather diseases than civilized medicine's ever had any experience with heretofore. Insect-bearing bugs are more numerous in that region than anywhere else on our globe, I'll bet you.

I had a dose of 'em some years ago—anthrax critters. To this minute I've got scars of their nibbles. And, of course, there also are yellow fever, ordinary hookworm, cholera, yaw and leprosy. Being an outsider, I suppose I was a trifle more susceptible than the average local inhabitant, but he isn't immune, either. Dump him into the infected territory, in rubber-gathering numbers, and they'll get him, believe me.

Consequently, fill up that valley with a big force of chaps from the comparatively healthy coastal continental fringe, and they'll die about as rapidly as they'll get there.

Inter-American Coordinator Nelson Rockefeller has had delegated to him the task of dealing with this complication.

Nelson has turned it over to a certain Yankee Dr. Saunders, who's "rassling" with it. He's scattered hospitals and investigatorial stations the whole length of the valley, and perhaps he'll succeed in effecting a permanent improvement—though the microbes are fiercer to combat than the human (or inhuman) Axis aggregation.

There's this to be said—

Latin America has a very high opinion of Yankee medicine. It heads in to a North American doc the minute anything's the matter with it. It may seem as if it would hunt one of its native practitioners, as likelier to have a more intimate acquaintance with its nearby maladies, but it doesn't. It consults an American or a European. I presume it regards 'em as more scientific.

It's especially noticeable as to dentistry.

Give a Latin American a toothache and he streaks it for a North American dentist. It's a profession that's practically monopolized south of the Rio Grande.

Why Be Surprised?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MR. SMITH is surprised. Not to say flabbergasted. Being both wise and important, Mr. Smith has spent most of his 60 years analyzing our social system. Recently he decided to make a survey of the Modern Working Woman—particularly those ladies who are now manning our defense projects. Whereupon he made many startling discoveries and would like to pass them on. Which is jake with me.

professor, but if you hear a few giggles or even violent guffaws in reply, don't blame Us Gals.

First of all our analyzer is amazed to find how many Modern Women are not only willing but eager to leave home and take a job. One can understand such an attitude in a restless, impoverished young girl, says he, or in a feminine careerist. But surely older, married ladies with ample means must still cherish the beauty of a serene home environment and shrink from public positions.

BUT DESPITE MR SMITH'S COAXING LITTLE WAYS, THEY DON'T AND THEY WON'T.

"Mind you," he deplores, "I fully realize that the world has changed greatly since my own youth and I have kept an open mind about it all. Naturally, I am familiar with women who work from necessity. But I am astounded by this enormous host of free wives and mothers who are taking over exclusively male jobs and glorifying the fact.

"One sees them swinging down the street in their slacks, chatting excitedly, having parked their children for the day, and one can only wonder—where will they go from here? What will happen to their homes and babies? How about their men, deprived of the comforts of home or returning from war to find women holding the old jobs and refusing to give them up? To say the least, it seems unbefitting if not downright vulgar, for women to have abandoned all the old ideals like this!"

They aren't abandoning their old ideals, friend Smith. They are just beginning to put them into practice. There is nothing new about the restless woman at any age. Women have always been the restless, adventuresome sex. And I suspect that if they had not prodded their men along we'd still be walking in cow trails. Women never wished to "stay cooped up at home" any more than men did. They wanted to be "up and attem." But babies, conventions and some grouchy male bound them down.

You claim women are taking your jobs. That's right—but remember you grabbed theirs first. For over 50 years men have been taking the baking, washing, cleaning, sewing and cooking jobs from the women and turning them into Big Business. And incidentally shrinking a ten room farm house into a three-room apartment.

So now we're out on our own and I suspect we'll stay. I admit we're wishing some tough problems on ourselves, the problem of the neglected child, the overworked woman, the sulky male, the desperate need for factory nursing managed by experts, the equally great need for more quiet and beauty in our lives. But these problems were inevitable. They would have come even if there had been no war.

So what can you do about it? You can take it in your stride or let it take you for a ride, as humans have always done with every great step ahead. For there's nothing new in social revolution. It comes "rolling right along" whether we like it or not, but, thank goodness, love and babies and books and pups and homes—and altar—will always endure. No matter what!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Jan. 9, 1923.

President Harding ordered American army of occupation withdrawn from Germany.

Lexington farmers' institute went on record as favoring rural police.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Put an extra high polish on the floor, Gus. . . . We have twelve empty beds today."

Dave Boone Says:

CONGRESS, like everybody else, must have been stirred by that fighting speech of President Roosevelt, but, gosh, I'll bet you could have floored it with a feather when it was urged to help see that after this war everybody got a sort of global life, accident, health and fire insurance policy good from the cradle to the grave and all underwritten by the government.

A lot of territory is being covered in this war but the things covered by this proposal is a new high for any distance.

Franklin says the young men and women demand "assurance against the evils of economic hazards from the time they're born till the time they die," but I think he's stretching it. If all the young people of America expect Washington to give them this coverage they're a different breed from their ancestors.

The builders of this country didn't do it with any anti-hazard guarantees covering the trip from the cradle to the grave. And my hunch is that the kids today are made of the same stuff, outside of a few gabby ones who do the loudest talking.

* * *

I think victory in this war will include victory over the idea governments must run everything and everybody. And I'm betting young people are for this kind of a victory.

Summary of Week's Happenings

New Congress Faces Active Year, Looks Toward Victory and Peace.

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

EVEN before President Roosevelt stepped before the 78th congress Thursday to deliver his message, congress knew it faced one of the biggest jobs in the country's history—the job of handing up the men, the food, the ammunition to push the war to a successful conclusion.

It was a congress that in peace times would have furnished the elements for many a merry political battle—with party lines drawn closer than at any time in the past 10 years—but the keynote was harmony, at least when war issues were involved.

Quotes

Price Administrator Leon Henderson: "Some advise you to tell the people what is needed and they will do it. So far as gasoline rationing is concerned that just ain't so!"

Rep. Will Rogers, Jr., California congressman, son of the famous humorist: "My dad used to say he never had to think up a joke—that all he had to do was to watch congress and report the facts."

Franz Werfel, author: "I believe that we now are at the beginning of a spiritual renaissance, for in the decade just past we began to realize that a new car or a new ice-box was no longer important."

Where the 77th congress groped uncertainly in its closing days, the new legislature promised to spring to the task of dealing with a half dozen issues aimed at eliminating the last traces of national complacency.

As the legislators squared away for the session, these were some of their problems:

1 The necessity of new taxes and deficit borrowing; perhaps a pay-as-you-go program for taxpayers, in all likelihood, some form of compulsory savings. Tied to this issue was another, the determination of the "economy bloc" to trim non-war expenditures to the lowest levels.

2 The extension of rationing and price controls and with this, the problem of meeting farmers' demands for increased farm incomes.

3 Extension of manpower controls—how to divide the manpower, and womanpower, between the farms and factories—and the consideration of a universal service law. In this field, too, falls the question of a statutory 48-hour week.

4 Extension of expiring lend-lease authority.

5 Reorganization of war production controls.

There were side issues galore, and few citizens expected to see congress carry on without following some non-war legislative pursuits. The proposal to repeal the poll-tax, beaten in the last session, was to come up again, along with a host of investigations and surveys left over from the old session.

Republicans, reaching their greatest power since 1932, promised to lead the drives for non-war economies, the curb of powers acquired by federal bureaus and agencies, and the moves to restore greater control to state and local governments.

To the veteran Sam Rayburn of Texas went another term as speaker of the house, while Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts returned as Democratic floor leader. Back as GOP floor leader was Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, who received his party's nomination as speaker.

At Home

Husky War Baby.

When the War Production Board last month totted up the figures on 1942 war materials output the result was not good, not bad. The factories fell short on planes, on tanks, on guns. But the shipbuilders came through with some 90,000 more tons of shipping than the 8 million asked.

It began to look during the week as if that had been just a starter. President Roosevelt disclosed that as of the first few days of January, yards were producing four ships a day, would pass their '43 goal of 16,000,000 tons.

Said reporters to FDR: Is new construction exceeding sinkings? Replied FDR: Just say the child is doing well.

Battle for Butter.

Americans who already had learned to stretch out their dwindling butter supply got another jolt during the week—Food Administrator Claude Wickard set up a butter budget for 1943, and civilians will get less than ever.

Wickard directed manufacturers to start Feb. 1 setting aside 30 per cent of their monthly butter production for direct military use (armed services, lend-lease.) The order, so Wickard estimated, would reduce civilian per capita consumption to about 13 pounds in 1943, against 16 pounds last year.

Present shortages, acute in some sections, may be alleviated when production rises seasonally in the spring. If not, some form of rationing may be instituted.

Virtually unchanged was the meat shortage, particularly in the east, where housewives stood in line for the dwindling variety of cuts, worried against the day when their menu problems are further complicated by canned-goods rationing.

Child Cruelty.

The bizarre case of Roger "Terrible" Touhy, former Chicago hoodlum who made his escape from Joliet prison, became a peroxide blond to escape detection and then was captured by the FBI on a warrant charging violation of the draft regulations, has had probably its last dizzy episode.

Into court during the week went Touhy's lawyer, demanding the release of his client. His argument: Touhy, in his 40's, was sentenced to 99 years in prison for kidnaping. The lawyer held that since a man's life is three-score-and-ten years, Touhy would be into his second childhood before his term ended—and you can't send a child to prison.

Said the judge: "Absurd." Touhy headed back to prison.

Joy In Flatbush, Etc.

Major league baseball club owners went to Chicago in fear and trembling; on one hand was stern old Judge Landis—perhaps with some drastic scheme for curtailment of the 1943 season. On the other hand was the Office of Defense Transportation —with the warning that travel schedules must be reduced.

But the owners came from the meeting smiling. They wangled the full schedule of 154 games, they agreed to train their performers in territory north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and east of the Mississippi. Lacking the balmy spring training weather, they'll delay the opening of the season to April 21, close it Oct. 3.

Abroad

Delayed By Weather.

Only this week did the Tunisian winter rains cease up enough to permit resumption of mechanized warfare. Along the northern front from Bizerte down to Tunis Allied infantry shivered in water-logged trenches, waiting for growing air power to blast the Axis out of strong defense positions.

Along the southern front — which is not strictly defined but a succession of strong points held by paratroopers and advance patrols — the pace quickened. Through Gafsa, a strong allied task force pointed toward Gabes and the Mediterranean coast. French patrols probed for tender spots in the south Tunisian section and the double-purpose offensive shaped up.

If Hitler's plans call for the defense of Tunisia, Allied plans seem to call for a new front anchored at Gabes to keep Rommel's Libyan troops from joining Tunisia's garrisons. The timetable—this time an Allied timetable—seems to call for liquidation of Rommel's Afrika Korps before the final drive into Tunis and Bizerte.

Hitler may be sending youngsters and old men to Russia and the occupation garrisons in France but in Tunis he is concentrating crack veterans of three years of war.

Russian Trap.

With Velikie Luki—one of the most strongly-held German positions—safely bagged, the Russians hammered on in the northern sector, aiming for the Latvian border and the complete fracture of the siege of Leningrad. To Germany's denial that Velikie Luki had been captured, the Russians replied: They dare not admit it because of the disastrous effect on morale at home.

To the south, the story was much the same. The Russians pulled tighter the net around a score of German divisions trapped before Stalingrad, raced on toward Rostov, the capture of which would all but collapse the German threat in the Caucasus—and it was the Caucasus oil that Adolf Hitler faithfully promised his people Sept. 30.

Russian reports told a story of Nazi slow death from cold and starvation, the stalling of the war machine because of a lack of fuel.

For the 20 divisions trapped in the Stalingrad area, Russians could see only an agonized end.

Science

Elusive Element.

Some 18 months ago Dr. Alice Leigh-Smith, a British scientist, studied in her laboratory a radium compound used in the treatment of cancer. The compound displayed irregularities, indicating some new element was present.

It might be, she concluded, the elusive element 85, last of the primary components of matter to be identified. She succeeded in isolating the element, photographing its radiations.

For the next year and a half she worked with Dr. Walter Minder of the Bern, Switzerland, Radium Institute, who some time before had discovered the element, taken a particle of it from radium.

Few days ago Scientists Leigh-Smith and Minder formally announced a method for isolating the element, disclosed that it had been christened Anglo-Helvetium, in honor of their two countries.

To the scientific world, the work was a dual achievement. It completed the list of 10 radio-active elements, carried to a conclusion the work started by Madame Curie and her husband, Pierre, in 1898.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—United States military experts, both official and unofficial, have learned to walk cautiously in their predictions of things to come.

No better example of it can be found than in the on and off the record comments here on the British Eighth Army's defeat of Rommel's famed Afrika Corps. Remembering their errors in this war including the fall of France, the defense of Russia, the seizure of Crete, the inability of the British to hold out in Hong Kong and Singapore, and especially the speed of Marshal Erwin Rommel's great offensive, the experts have been almost behind Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery ever since he left El Alamein.

They were sure, even after the Eighth Army's great breakthrough at El Alamein and the capture there of most of Rommel's Italian units, that he would make a stand at Matruh. Then, the big battles were "just ahead" at Bardia, Tobruk, Bengasi. The "desert fox" was going to make a whale of stand at El Agheila, then Misurata, then Tripoli.

THERE is good reason for this caution. For the first time since we have been in the war, American fighting men got a real close-up of the Nazi fighting machine. These were men like Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., who saw Rommel start his last great push.

Writing in The Calvary Journal, Major Lodge said: "A man would have to be blind not to see that the German soldiers were superbly equipped for the rigours of desert fighting. German civilians have had to content themselves with ersatz makeshifts, but not their fighting men."

Major Joe Ahee, who was with the Senator, said German thoroughness and preparation was such that they brought with them spare parts for American and British tanks they expected to capture.

"Their program of maintaining their troops in perfect physical condition is another example of their exactitude," said Major Ahee. "Even in extremely advanced positions, they are up at 5:15 and have 15 minutes of calisthenics."

HE DESCRIBED their tank tactics as a masterpiece of strategy and explained how they kept their supply and ammunition lines out of striking distance.

When the experts began to put together these reports with the fact that Rommel had an army of 100,000 men, at least 50,000 of whom were these "superbly equipped" and well trained Nazis, it isn't any wonder they trod softly on predictions that the "desert fox" would continue to wave his brush in retreat.

ne did? Well, then it seems she had some scruples about rs being in Reno too soon she was, so she was to go to York and get clothes and come back. Rogers wasn't to Reno until early in May, that would mean that we divorced at least two weeks and I've not heard from him om his attorney."

at's your side of it," Andy "I want to get started on Remember the way we last Christmas and what te you?"

is likely," Dina answered, g away, "that I should for- you know what I thought when I wrote you that?"

Her eyes came around to him. "Of course I know."

"That you wanted to marry Vere."

"What on earth could make you think that?"

"Because he told me so. Do you remember that Hall, your driver, took me to the airport that night and Vere went along?".

"Perfectly. He certainly couldn't have told you that I—I—"

"But he did," Andrew said simply as she stopped, stammering.

"That wasn't what I was trying to tell you at all!" Dina exclaimed. "I was trying to tell you about Vere and me."

"What you were trying to tell me I perfectly well understood," Andy told her. "I said to you that I had told Aline to shut up when she mentioned it, but that didn't mean I didn't believe it. I knew right away that it was true. It explained everything. Rogers' attitude toward you and yours toward him, and the way he spoke of the baby. So when we talked that day in the hall I knew. But what I hadn't done," Andy went on," was connect Vere with it! So that night, when we were going to the airport and he told me that he and you were going to be married, it was a thunderbolt. I told him that I imagined you didn't have any definite plans after a divorce. and he said very seriously that there was a reason why you and he should be married—it was a matter of honor.

"Well, Dina, it all broke on me then! Vere is the man over whom she's been breaking her heart.' I thought, 'and all I've been is a sort of spare-tire comforter, somebody to amuse her with his devotion if she can't get the man she wants to marry. Vere is the father of Margaret, of course, and Dina'll not feel things are right unless she marries him!

"And I came out here now expecting to find you married to Vere," Andy finished.

"No, never that," she told him, smiling into his eyes. He put his arm about her, and in the silence of the hot, still, deserted hour, they kissed each other.

Dina was standing in the garden one August afternoon, watering the thirsty flowers in a hot, lingering sunset and holding with her free hand a letter from Andy, when Rogers walked around the corner of the house and saw her.

Andy, the letter said, wanted her to come down to the city to see his murals.

She looked up and saw Rogers. The sight of him, homely and fat and goggle-eyed, yet always a friendly and reassuring presence to her at least, gave her such surprise and pleasure that she had put her arm about his neck and kissed him before she had time for thought.

"Rogers! you're back!"

"Hello, my dear." He was glad to see her, too; his glasses were frosted, and he took them off and wiped them.

"It's good to see you," Dina said. "Was it a wonderful trip? It sounded so from what Mr. Callaghan said."

"Then you've seen Callaghan?"

"No, I didn't. But Andy did. Andy Havens. Did you see Callaghan?"

"I've not seen anyone. I got home this morning about ten and took a look at my mail. Then I knew I had to see you."

"I wrote you to know if the divorce had gone through," Dina said simply; her eyes widened childishly on a smile.

"Well, of course you should have been told," he said, blinking his bulging eyes. "No, there's been no divorce."

"No divorce!"

"No. That's what I came to see you about. I don't want a divorce."

"Why, Rogers! I don't understand. Guess I must be dreaming!"

"No. I was the one that was dreaming. I dreamed about one woman for 20 years," he said. "I'm awake."

"You quarreled?"

"No, we didn't quarrel. I went away before she got back from New York. But she wrote me. She wants to go on with it. I can't."

"She certainly doesn't want to go on with it if you don't?"

"Oh, not for any affection she feels for me!" the man answered bitterly. "I guess it's the money—just plain money! Eventually alimony, perhaps. Quite suddenly," he said in a more moderate tone, "I saw it all, like the villain in the play. I saw Aline for exactly what she's always been, a very beautiful. clever, selfish woman where her interests are concerned and a mighty stupid one in everything else. She's been told since she was 15 that she can enslave men, make them jump through hoops—through wedding rings. It's partly true. But lord, when you once see her as she is, there isn't much to see!"

Dina looked at him dubiously, looked away.

"But—but didn't she count on marrying you, Rogers?"

"Yes, and I counted on her loving me, fool that I was! But I suddenly woke up; it came to me like a flash, and I saw things right. So I sent her a letter—sent it the day I sailed for Honolulu. I told her I'd changed and it was only fair for her to know it; better then than after we were married."

"And she . . . ?"

"Oh, she sent me a letter clipper mail. Like an idiot I gave her my address. It was a kindly, motherly letter—a perfect bit of acting, if you like acting. She wrote that after so many years I didn't know my own mind. She told me she loved me too clearly—a lot of rot! She said she wasn't going to say a word to anyone, but as soon as I got back to California she'd have a talk with me and she was sure she could convince me that marrying her was the perfect solution. She wouldn't believe that I had ducked the divorce from you."

"She was wild!" Dina said, awed. "Perfectly wild!"

"Yes, I think she was. But her letter was friendly enough; she said—oh, a lot of guff! There's no use in repeating her nonsense."

"What did you answer?"

"The day after I got the letter I sailed. I'd already booked passage."

"So you didn't write?"

"There was nothing to say."

"But Rogers," Dina said in a relieved voice, "of course Aline must know it's all over. You left in February, so Mr. Callaghan said; now it's the middle of August. If you sent her no word in all that time, surely she must realize now—"

"This was among my mail when I got home," he said, handing over a blue sheet dashingly covered with writing.

"My own Toppy," Dina read, "Callaghan tells me that you're due next week, so I'm planning to leave Dolly's place at the Rouge Monday the 19th and will see you the next night. Let Caroline and me come over for dinner; we'll have a cocktail in the dear old library first and plan Such a long absence and such complete silence, but I know my old boy through and through. I'm not going to let you get so far away from me ever again. I suppose it must be the stupid delay of Reno first, but I think we might put that up to Dina if you made it forceful enough, and after that I'll be entirely your Aline!"

"That's tomorrow night. What—what nonsense!" Dina said indignantly, handing back the letter.

"Nonsense, yes, but she means it."

"She has—I sound horribly like a lawyer, Rogers—has she letters?"

"I suppose so. But all conditional upon all of us getting divorces—conditional on the 'if we ever are free' and 'if we can ever marry'."

"Could you buy her off?"

"Not Aline! You sound more and more like a lawyer." He blinked at her, smiling. "Geraldine, those were happy months for me when you were in my home," he said.

"I'm awfully grateful you feel that way."

"I oughtn't ever to have married anyone; I'm not the sort that ought to marry!" he said fretfully. "I like living there alone, with perhaps a sweet girl and a baby visiting me now and then. For years I thought Aline had robbed me of something I wanted. Now I know I never wanted it. Bucket takes care of me; I have everything I need. Why in the name of all that's sane should I tangle up my life with Aline?"

"Could Aline sue you, Rogers?" Dina asked.

"For what?"

"Breach of promise—or something like that?"

"Nonsense, but she'll try to talk me round; she's always been able to talk anyone into almost anything."

"I suppose you'll have to see her," Dina said slowly.

"That's where you help me out. I've no right to ask you any favor, but that's where you can save me," Rogers said.

"You've every right to ask me anything! But I don't see how I can help."

"By saying you refuse to divorce me, Geraldine—by saying you'll contest it."

Dina was a little pale.

"You mean in court, with a lawyer?"

"I don't mean anything except a letter saying that never, under no circumstances whatsoever, will you consent to a divorce."

"Oh, I thought I was done with all that fuss," Dina said under her breath.

"Don't misunderstand me, Geraldine. I'm not asking you to come back. I love you as I've loved very few women in my life, but always as if you were my daughter — my good, square, amusing little friend. A man can love a woman that way, especially when she's younger, no matter what they say. All I want is delay. I want Aline to know that there is a deadlock and let her go stalking somewhere else."

Cooperettes Aid War Effort By Giving Time to Nutrition Center

Homemakers Requested to Avail Themselves of Information.

Proudly and prominently displayed beside "Old Glory" in the local Ohio Fuel Gas Company's showroom, 68 Park Avenue West, is the bronze honor roll of Gas Company employees now serving our country in the armed forces.

These men were all taken from home and family here in Richland county to help preserve the way of life they enjoyed along with all the rest of us before Dec. 7.

Before that unhappy day, they were performing service to Ohio Fuel Gas company customers . . . services that must now be carried on by those left at home.

In addition to these important services, there are other tasks that have arisen from war needs . . . tasks to be performed with new civic spirit by an army of civilian workers who are learning things . . things that will pay off in the America that is to be.

This conscientious civilian army of homefront workers is steadily achieving an indoctrination of service and civic responsibility that can't help but have its effect in the post war world.

The Ohio Fuel Gas Company, anticipating, as always, the needs of this community, is putting forth every effort to organize just such effort toward public welfare now and after the war is over.

One important project of the gas company is its Nutrition Center, planned and directed by the organization's Home Economoist, Mrs. Pauline Treisch who is aiding homemakers in managing art homemakers in maintaining health and efficiency in their families through improved diet.

Aiding this effort are the Cooperettes, companion organization to the Cooperative Club, a service organization here, who began donating time to work in the gas company's Nutrition Center this week.

This idea was suggested to the Cooperettes by a member of the group, Mrs. Orville Smith, whose husband is an employe of the gas company.

Mrs. C. A. Banfill, 194 Fairlawn Avenue, explained the part the Cooperettes are playing in the project while taking her turn at the Nutrition Center this week.

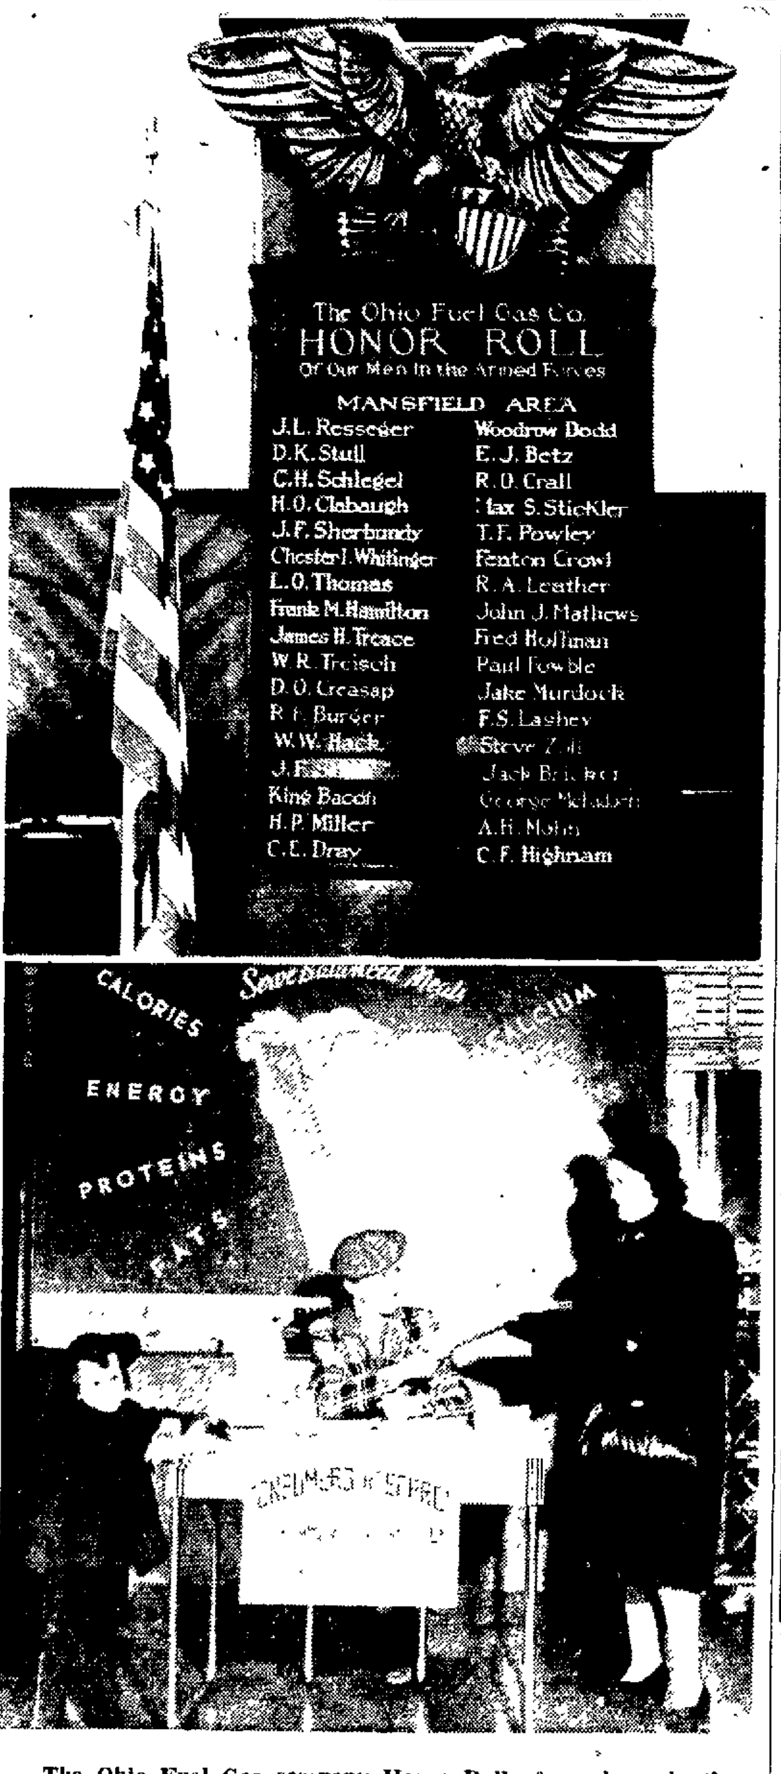
Distributing nutrition bulletins and defense literature to Mrs. John McGregor, Springmill road, who dropped in at the gas company with her little granddaughter, Jeanne White, Mrs. Banfill suggested several victory recipes for a nutritious menu and discussed methods of gas cookery to conserve food values.

She also gave Mrs. McGregor several pointers on how to make her range last longer and how to conserve fuel.

Such information is available to all Mansfielders through the cooperation of the Gas Company and the Cooperettes. Won't you stop in at 68 Park Avenue West and avail yourself of it, too?

For, after all, Mrs. Mansfield, this is your war, too' Perhaps you can't enlist in the WAACs or the WAVES, work in war industry or join the local Civilian Defense Corps of the Volunteer Red Cross Services. Maybe your home demands too much of you for that. Maybe those little ones take too much of your time.

Nevertheless, you're important in this war . . . and don't ever forget it. Yours is an everyday . . . yes, every minute job, right in your own home. And there are a hundred and one things you can do to vitally aid the war effort.



The Ohio Fuel Gas company Honor Roll of employes in the armed forces is pictured in the accompanying photo. Below is shown Mrs. C. A. Banfill, seated, member of the Cooperette club, distributing victory literature to Mrs. John McGregor who dropped in at the Gas company's nutrition center with her granddaughter, little Miss Jeanne White.

HAMBURGER INN COMMENDED FOR QUICK SERVICE

Armour Company Meats Are Ground Daily at Restaurant.

The Hamburger Inn is owned and operated by C. C. Bemiller, who has been its proprietor since 1936. The restaurant has been located at its present address, 54 West Fourth street, since 1931.

As its name implies, the Inn features hamburgers which are made from Armour and company beef and ground daily by Mr. Bemiller at the restaurant. This procedure insures the freshness of the meat and the quality and goodness of the hamburgers at all times.

Mr. Bemiller wishes to inform his customers that he has been forced to discontinue selling 5c hamburgers for the duration because of the advance in meat prices.

Another of the Hamburger Inn's specials is chili, a large bowl of which sells for a dime.

Delicious plate lunches are 30c, 35c and 40c and the management of the Hamburger Inn makes a special point of quick and efficient service. This is of particular interest to business people who must eat as hurriedly as possible.

Breakfasts at the Inn are popular with Mansfielders, for they are not only tasty but inexpensive and nutritious as well.

Breakfast rolls and doughnuts are delivered each morning to the restaurant to accompany steaming coffee of the finest quality. Mr. Bemiller is particularly proud of his coffee. It is drip brewed in a new Pyrex lined coffee urn from the same brand coffee that is used in leading Mansfield hotels.

The Hamburger Inn is open daily except Sunday from 7 a. m. until midnight and on Saturday an hour later.

SOIL EROSION DISCUSSED BY GORDON ENSMINGER

Jared Mansfield Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, Has Guest Speaker at Dinner-Meeting Friday.

GORDON ENSMINGER, president of the Richland County Fish and Game Protective association, was guest speaker, when members and guests of the Jared Mansfield chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution held a dinner meeting in the undercroft of the Grace Episcopal church last evening.

The meeting was opened by group singing of "America" followed by the reading of Scripture and prayer. The Pledge of Allegiance was given in unison. Business meeting was conducted by Mrs. B. F. Spear. Mrs. R. W. Jones, chaplain, read a memorial service for Mrs. Ilene Martin Goard, a chapter member, who passed away recently in her home in Crestline.

Delegates and alternates were elected to the Ohio State Society conference to be held in Columbus, March 16-18, the Deshler Wallick hotel. They include Mrs. Spear, Mrs. S. D. Hoover, Mrs. W. H. Miss Hazel K. Zellner, chapter chairman of conservation, introduced Mr. Ensminger, the speaker of the evening. In his talk, he stated it is estimated that ninety million acres of top soil has been carried into the Gulf of Mexico, due to the ravages of soil erosion and deforestation. Mr. Ensminger spoke of educational surveys, which show that 20 per cent of Ohio's acreage should be in forest and wood lot, while in reality it is only ten per cent.

The next meeting will be a dinner-dessert, to be held at the Women's Club, Feb. 5. Mrs. H. L Creveling will be the hostess.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

END-PLAY HIM TWICE

MOST OF THE fancy plays of the game—such as squeezes, lead-throwing end-plays, grand coups and smother plays—can be used only once on a hand. But the rare case comes along which gives you a chance to combine two of these devices, or perhaps use one of them twice. Card reading usually is the key to them. "Where do we go from here?" is the only question a chess player ever has to answer. He can look at the board and see exactly where "here" is. In bridge card reading is needed to figure it out.

After that double, West should have led either a spade, being sure East had most of that suit, or else a club as second-choice lead. In other words, he should have worked to build up the doubler's tricks, but he didn't. He led the diamond 10, an this gave South a chance to go to work, as he read the double better than West.

After the diamond J won the first trick, South led the heart 2. West used his A, the K being thrown from dummy to unblock, then West led his diamond 8 to the Q. Reading West for five cards in both red suits, hence a shaded third hand bid, and East for only two cards in each red suit, he came to his own hand with the heart Q and cashed his J for a diamond discard. When East threw off a spade, his reading was confirmed, East having only black cards left.

The spade 10 was now sent to the J. East didn't like to lead into the spade tenace, so led the club K. South let this win. The 6 was then sent forth and South let it run to the 9, first trick picked up by a lead-thrower. The club J then brought the Q and A. Thereupon the heart 10 was taken, the lowest spade being tossed by both dummy and East. Now came the second end-play. East was thrown in with the club 8 to the 10 and he had nothing left but his spade K J. So he had to lead into the A-Q. This gave South two spades, two clubs, three hearts and two diamonds, making his contract.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Aunt Madge!" Mary exclaimed, as I lifted my ban upon her talking. "What evil spirit is possessing you? What do you mean by telling me that which Olina must have told you in confidence! She'd simply curl up and die if she thought I knew it!"

"I know," I said. "I've been all over that in my mind. But first she never will know you have heard it, for I shall tell no one else and I am very sure you will not repeat it."

"I wish, you were as sure of Heaven," Mary said.

Evidently her lightness cloaked real scorn in her appraisal of me and I winced at her censure.

"In the second place," I went on, "my chief reason for telling you was I felt that if you knew how much Georges means to Olina, you would be eager to fall in my scheme to help her, even at some sacrifice on your part."

Mary's cheeks were flaming now.

"I certainly am infinitely obliged for your exalted opinion of me Auntie Madge," she said. "So I'm such a heel that I can't be trusted to do the generous thing, unless a chamber of horrors is opened up to awaken my conscience!"

"I humbly beg your pardon, dear," I said. "I've been very clumsy. You surely know that instead of considering you a heel, I always count on your generosity and high sense of honor. But I still think it was necessary for you to share this knowledge of Olina with me so that we both may deal more intelligently with Georges."

Impulsively Mary pulled me down and kissed me warmly.

"You always could make anybody believe black was white and vice versa," she said. "But what do you expect Georges to pull, that you're laying down such a barrage?"

"I don't know," I said hesitatingly, "but one thing is certain, Mary. Georges just now is in the throes of what he evidently thinks is a romantic passion for you; the signs of that are plentiful.

"I do not know, and doubt if he does, whether he has cherished your image in his heart all these years or, which seems more plausible, is really most concerned over the danger to his old friends Olga and Olina, but seeing you in the glamour of your stage success, has lost his head and may try to win you away from Noel."

Mary hooted derisively at that.

"Fat chance he'd have!" she said. "But really, Auntie Madge, your scenario sounds exactly like one of those pulp love stories."

"Perhaps it does," I answered, "but you saw Georges a little while ago—and heard him. And I know that you are now secretly agreeing with me."

She laughed ruefully.

"But you also know that I won't admit it if you have guessed right," she said. "However, that's neither here nor there. What is it you want me to do?"

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Jan. 10

Sunday's horoscope is a most auspicious one for affairs of church and state as well as all charitable, educational, cultural as well as social and affectional or domestic associations. It is a time for pleasure and personal influence and popularity but is menaced by a proclivity toward impetuous, discordant and rash conduct.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very happy, prosperous and significant year for fulfilled ambitions and aspirations.

A child born on this day should be able, efficient and ambitious and should attain position and influence in many fields providing it learns to control its impulses, emotions and bad temper, although it will be friendly and kind.

For Monday, Jan. 11.

Monday's astrological forecast gives promise of pleasant, progressive, prosperous conditions, under an expansive and highly productive rule in which the element of surprise, change or innovation figures. At the same time there is omen of treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of splendid opportunity for advancing their affairs with the accent on social, romantic and professional activities, in which there may be sudden and unforeseen visitations, with innovations and change. There may be a portent of intrigue and duplicity to be guarded against.

ART STUDY CLUB HEARS TALK ON OHIO ARTISTS

Mrs. Harry Buchan Reviews Book Written By Eda Maria Clark, a Resident of Columbus and Personal Friend.

MEMBERS of the Art Study club heard a most interesting talk at their regular meeting Friday in the parish house of First Congregational church when Mrs. Harry Buchan spoke on "Ohio Arts and Artists."

The history of art in Ohio was traced from the time of the mound-builders to the present contemporary artists, with Mrs. Buchan taking her notes from the book, "Ohio Arts and Artists," by Edna Maria Clark, a resident of Columbus, and a personal friend of the speaker. An interesting disclosure made by Mrs. Buchan was the fact that Cincinnati has contributed the greatest number of artists of any city in the state.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Clay Lutz, Mrs. M. Vale Scouten and Mrs. J. E. Fendrick.

Following the talk by Mrs. Buchan, Mrs. K. E. Buhr conducted the program on "Current Events," and told of the many famous paintings in the collection of the Barnes' Foundation in Marion, Pa.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting, with the president, Mrs. William Keefe, presiding.

Guests at the program were Mrs. F. A. Klohs, Mrs. C. J. Way and Mrs. Robert Pollock. The next meeting, Jan. 22, will be at the home of Mrs. Buhr, Glenbeck lane, with Mrs. Fred Dippman and Miss Lillian Dickson, assisting.

The Staiger Tea Room was the scene yesterday of a luncheon for the members of the Coterie club, the hostess of which was Mrs. Harmon Baer.

Mrs. Charles Sonner opened the program with the roll call, after which papers were read on "Things You Don't Know" by Mrs. James Trine. "The Song Sisters of China" was the title of a book review given by Mrs. George Garrison. The secretarial report of new and old business was presented by Mrs. Samuel Cairns.

Mrs. Frank Bair will entertain the club at her home on Cline avenue with a one o'clock luncheon, Jan. 22.

ar Sir:

After reading your column last night's (Wednesday) per it is quite evident you e some misunderstanding arding the rules govern- bowling in both the gues and tournaments.

ou state in your column that have a rule allowing a person laim only one championship in tournament. This is not true. one person is entitled to as ny championships as she wins ach separate event.

he rule which has been fol- ed in bowling leagues and naments for a good many rs and which has been handed n to us by the W. I. B. C. is ollows:

"No team or individual can n more than one prize in y group of prizes."

hat is the rule which ap- d to the All-Events and ch we have used in our gues and tournaments as as women have been ling in Mansfield.

ny girl is entitled to and n all championships she s in each event, but she not claim more than one e in any group.

e scratch score place in our nament this year was set up the championship and first e winner. This is the first a championship has been n for scratch score in a handi- tournament and it was felt it really deserved the cham- ship place.

e trust this will give you a understanding of the rules wed in our tournament and tournaments, including the onal.

ear Mary: I was misin- ned by some of your bowl- regarding the winning of e than one championship. e they also had a misun- tanding of the situation, had not had it fully ex- ned to them, I do not feel d upon to divulge their es.

am happy to learn there nothing in your tourna- t rules to prevent the ing of championships in e than one division.

wever, I am bull-headed gh to stick to my opinion anyone is entitled to all he s in any sporting event in h an entry fee is charged, the fact that the W. I. B. C. rule against the winning of than one prize in a group rizes does not change my on.

d even if the Inter-City asso- n should adopt a similar on its special prizes, that not change my opinion. Adop- of a rule does not change the ess of things.

hard feelings, I hope.

ICAGO — (AP) — A total of 922 customers clicked the iles at American league during the 1942 baseball , Will Harridge, league pres- said today.

Cage Fans See Fast Battles

Big Crowds Turn Out At Madison, Ontario.

KEPT HOME by gasoline rationing, Richland county cage fans are finding plenty of entertainment right in their own back yards, and last night's games drew near record breaking crowds at Madison and Ontario.

Madison went into a tie with Lucas for second place in the county league race with a 27-18 victory over the Minute Men, while Ontario outlasted Plymouth in a wild game for a 35-31 win.

These were the only games played in the county league, Butler and Bellville having played earlier in the week with Butler taking first place in the league race, while the Union-Shiloh game booked last night was postponed until Feb. 15 because of icy condition of highways which forced closing of schools in that section.

Lexington, only seven miles from Madison, took along a big cheering section, and the fans had something to cheer about as the Minute Men stepped away to a 9-3 lead in the first period, paced by some hot shooting by Follett on long heaves.

The vistors added only one point in the second period but still led at the half 10-8.

It was a ding-dong battle all the way through the third period with Madison finally tying the score in the closing minutes at 17-17 on a tap-in shot by Poston, and taking the lead 19-17 on a sucker shot by Bader just before the period ended.

Lexington went into another one-point tail-spin in the final quarter, and Madison rolled on to its 28-18 victory.

It was an almost exact duplicate of the game played at Ontario, where the visiting Plymouth aggregation took a 5-3 lead in the first quarter and continued to hold the edge 12-11 at the half.

Then came one of the wildest exhibitions of bucket tossing seen in the county league in many years as each team chalked up 18 points in the third period, leaving Plymouth still ahead at 30-29.

The first seven shots attempted in the third period found the hoop without the team in possession of the ball ever losing possession, except by scoring a bucket. Up and down the floor the two teams went, trading shots and making them, and the lead swung back and forth as they connected.

But the 36-point third period pace was too hot for Plymouth to maintain, and they tallied only one point in the final stanza as Ontario went on to win 35-31. That kind of basketball should bring out fans without blaming the crowds on gas rationing.

EASY VICTORIES SCORED IN GAMES

Two basketball games played at the Y.M.C.A gym yesterday saw easy victories chalked up by Empire Steel over "Y" Reserves 42-26, and by "Y" Juniors over Junior Optimists 39-27. Juniors tallied 16 points in the last quarter to chalk up its victory margin.

Gilbert tallied 16 points for the Juniors and Wentland got the same number for Reserves. Majors led Empire with 12.

Tygers Seek Fourth Win

Hope to Continue New Victory Streak.

Life is just one little streak after another for Coach Vern Hoffman's Mansfield high school basketball team these winter days, and tonight they attempt to prolong a winning streak which, at three straight games, has equalled the losing streak with which they opened the season.

Since Hoffman's Tygers first broke the ice with a victory over Willard, reputations of visiting teams have meant little to the Red and White hoopsters. They bumped off Cleveland Collinwood, a team that was doped to beat them, and they edged a previously undefeated Akron West quintet.

Tonight they tangle with Lima Central's Dragons who were undefeated until they lost to Springfield a week ago.

The Lima club played last night at Martins Ferry where the Dragons were swamped 66 to 30.

Tyger Sophomores meet Johnny Appleseed in the preliminary tilt at 7 o'clock tonight, and the main attraction is booked at 8:15.

Dugger Uses Contact Specs

Tries New Lenses For First Time at Indiana.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State university's basketball team was in Bloomington, Ind., today for the first of two games with Indiana university, the opening shots of the Western conference cage race.

Indiana enters Big Ten play with seven straight victories and Branch McCracken's forces are a favorite to cop the conference title.

Coach Harold Olsen, before leaving Columbus, announced he would start Captain Freddie Miller and Max Gecowets at forwards; Jack Dugger, Canton sophomore, at center, and Gene Fekete and Dick Shrider at guards.

Dugger will be using contact lenses for the first time this season in game competition and his play is expected to pick up considerably with the aid of the "spects."

Others of Ohio cage squad to make the trip were John White, River Rouge, Mich., sophomore who will be Dugger's first substitute; Lou Trabitz, reserve center and forward; Jimmy Sims and Bud Wise, reserve guards, and Ken Eichwald, Lakewood sophomore forward.

The Buckeyes and Hoosiers will meet again Monday night at Bloomington under the travel-conserving schedule adopted by the conference.

Sam Guarino Hits High Total of 538

Sam Guarino had high total of 538 in the Westinghouse "B" bowling league at Colony alleys, and Everett Croskey chalked up high game of 222.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—When something unusual turns up like last week's 159-point game between Fordham and Rhode Island or a player like Harry Boykoff of St. John's, who is both extra-tall and extra-good, the basketball experts ask, "But is it basketball?" . . . This columnist, admittedly no part of an expert, is led to cross-question, "Well, just what is basketball?" . . . Corp. Julius Kasner, who used to be a college star in Brooklyn and who now coaches the Camp Kohler, Calif., team and plays for Mather Field, explains it this way: "On the coast everything is a planned play like in football. Back east we adapt our style to suit the occasion. We don't try to arrange our plans in advance." . . . Maybe that helps explain the popularity of one old cat.

P. S.

Our own taste is more for "ivy league" basketball. . . . The teams usually have a couple of football players who forget themselves in times of stress and are likely to bounce opponents around the floor as well as the ball when they dribble. . . . It isn't always good but there's lots of action.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Oliver Kuechle, Milwaukee Journal: "Every team in the Big Ten except Chicago will play at least one Saturday-Monday double header this season in order to conserve on transportation. Chicago will play only single games because of its central location. Also nobody wants to see Chicago twice."

SERVICE DEPT

Soldiers at the army air forces technical school at Sioux Falls, S. D., thought the football season had been extended when they heard that the 85th aviation squadron had defeated the quartermasters, 54-0. But it was merely the top performance of the 85th squadron basketball team.

CLEANING THE CUFF.

After tasting rubber chicken practically every night during December, Paul Brown, Ohio State grid coach, refused to take any January dates on the banquet circuit.

FIGHTERS FILE FOR CLEVELAND TOURNEY

Boxers of the Mansfield area, including Ashland, Crawford and Richland counties, who wish to compete in the Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament, must have their entry blanks on file with Russ Gimbel at Friendly House by Monday.

Plans for an elimination tournament here were called off when only seven boxers indicated a willingness to compete. If those seven boxers want to go to Cleveland, they should see Gimbel.

Cap Threatens Mount Title

Lutherans Gain Tie With Loop Champions.

(By International News Service)

A threat to Mt. Union's supremacy in the Ohio conference basketball race was made by Capital university cagers today as they chalked up their second league win to go into a tie with last year's champion for the loop lead.

* * *

Paced by Bob Kalish and Herb Shrider, who got 18 and 12 points, respectively, Capital put the skids under Marietta at Marietta, 60 to 32. Captain Amrine of the Pioneers also got 12 points to lead his team in scoring.

Other victories on the Ohio basketball front were chalked up by Akron, Denison, Baldwin-Wallace and Wilberforce

Akron nosed out Maimi, 48, to 45, for the Zippers' sixth straight win in eight starts. Baldwin-Wallace defeated Western Reserve, 51 to 33, for the Yellow Jackets' third win against two losses. It was both Miami and Western Reserve's second loss of the season against three wins.

Making a second-half recovery, Denison eked out a 41 to 40 win over Otterbein in an Ohio conference tilt. The Westerville boys led at the half, 21 to 16, but the Big Red came back to tie the score with 14 minutes remaining in the second half. After that the lead changed three times, with Denison's Bob McGinnis tiring the deciding basket

Wilberforce opened its cage season by downing Bluffton, 70 to 62. It was Buff's fourth straight defeat.

* * *

Tonight's schedule Kenyon at Oberlin; Marietta at Wittenberg, Ashland at Baldwin-Wallace; Otterbein at Heidelberg; Mount Union at Ohio Wesleyan; John Carroll at Case; Lawrence Tech at Kent State; Defiance at Toledo Navy; Ohio university at Dayton, Morehead at Rio Grande; Kentucky at Xavier; Fenn at Hiram; Akron at Cincinnati and Dartmouth at Toledo.

CRESTLINE WINS

Sport Fans Still See Big Shows

Indicate They'll Find Some Means of Travel.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Attendances at sports events last night, first big athletic evening since the office of defense transportation banned pleasure driving in 17 eastern states, indicated patrons would reach the arenas somehow if the show goes on.

A crowd of 10,416 jammed the subways to watch Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia knock out Chester Rico of New York, in Madison Square Garden. That was 416 more than promoter Mike Jacobs expected even before the ban was announced.

Approximately 1,400 were on the sidelines at New Haven, Conn., as Cornell defeated Yaye in an Eastern league basketball game. Busses and trolleys carried Yale's largest of the season.

However, the ban did work a revision in the schedules of the colleges not benefitted by being located in populous areas and having the advantages of public transportation facilities.

Grove City's game with St. Vincent, both Pennsylvania schools, was postponed because of the ban and Siena, one of the basketball powerhouses of upper New York state, moved its contest with Paterson, N. J., Teachers to Schenectady.

Slippery Rock Teachers St. Francis and Thiel, more Pennsylvania colleges, abandoned their cage programs prior to last night and Waynesburg indicated it might follow suit. It was Waynesburg's team that saved gas coupons to make the trip to Duquesne, arrived there safely before the ban was announced and then couldn't get the fuel to return home.

Frank Summers of Hampden-Sydney decided basketball was his "business" and so sent his cagers to Washington and Lee university by automobile.

High school basketball circuits seemed hardest hit with two New York circuits announcing suspension of the winter schedule and numerous individual contests being cancelled.

Bowling alley owners reported a drop of 10 to 20 per cent in business.

Whippets Trip Mount Vernon

Shelby Cagers Spring N. C. O. League Upset.

SHELBY — The Shelby Whippets sprang an upset in the North Central Ohio league cage race by defeating Mt. Vernon, 33 to 20, Friday night on the Yellow Jackets' floor.

Led by Herb Poland and Ralph Higgins who each scored 10 points, the Whippets were never pressed by the Yellow Jackets after gaining a 12 to 6 lead at the end of the first quarter. Shelby held Mt. Vernon scoreless for 17½ minutes during the game including the entire second quarter.

The Whippets led 16 to 6 at the half and 20 to 9 going into the last stanza.

Especially happy over the victory was Coach Swackhamer, former Mt. Vernon mentor, who came to Shelby this fall to pilot the Whippet's cage team for his first year. It was the first win of three starts for Shelby and the second loss out of three for the Yellow Jackets.

Most birds fly southward when winter approaches, but some of the hardier species remain in cold climates during the entire year. Sparrows, woodpeckers, horned owls, chicadees, red birds and some hawks are among the creatures willing to face seasons of snow. And don't forget to feed these little feathered friends, who have a hard time finding food, when snow and ice covers the ground.

STOCKS SHOW IRREGULARLY HIGHER TREND

Corporation Dividends Drop 12 Per Cent From Mark Of Preceding Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Irregularly higher tendencies were exhibited by leading stocks in today's early market transactions.

At a fairly active opening gainers of fractions included Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Bethlehem, Standard Oil (NJ), Yellow Truck, and United Aircraft. Small declines were posted for Allied Chemical, American Can, Loew's, Chesapeake & Ohio and Paramount Pictures.

Market analysts noted the compilation of the commerce department which disclosed cash dividends paid by American corporations in 1942 amounted to $3,559,000,000 compared with $4,041,000,000 the year before. This was a drop of 12 per cent.

The department's explanation for part of the decline from the high 1941 mark was that in that year disbursements were expanded by the substantial clearing up of arrearages by many corporations.

HEAD OF FAMILY EXEMPTION

A single person, or a married person not living with husband or wife, is entitled to a personal exemption of $1,200 for the year if he can qualify as head of a family. A head of family is "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

Examples of head of family status would be a widower or widow who maintained a home for a dependent child, or a son who supported and maintained a household for a dependent father or mother. In order to meet the test of actual support and maintenance as head of a family, the benefactor must furnish more than one-half of the support and maintenance.

The term "in one household" ordinarily means under one roof, but if a father is absent on business or a child or other dependent is away at school, or on a visit, the common home being still maintained the head of family exemption would still apply. Where a parent is obliged to maintain his dependent children with relatives or in a boarding house while he lives elsewhere, the additional exemption may still apply. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family irrespective of the question of support.

The term "closely connected by blood relationship" applies to a person's progenitors and lineal descendants, to his brothers or sisters, where by the whole or half blood, and to his uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces. Irrespective of any legal obligation of the taxpayer to support such dependent relatives, a moral obligation to do so exists, and if the individual is actually supporting and maintaining in one household relatives of this degree he is entitled to head of family exemption.

A taxpayer is considered to be "closely connected by marriage" with his step-sisters and step-brothers, but whether his right to exercise family control and provide for these individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation must be decided upon the facts in the particular case. The same considerations apply to the status of a taxpayer because of support furnished to his father-in-law, mother-in-law, brother-in-law and sister-in-law. First cousins by blood and cousins of lesser degree, are not regarded as so "closely connected by blood relationship" as to give rise to a head of family exemption.

A legal guardian who may maintain and support in his home a dependent ward is not entitled to the personal exemption as head of a family if the ward was not connected with him by relationship of blood, marriage, or adoption, nor is a taxpayer entitled to exemption as head of a family by virtue of maintenance and support of a child not legally adopted.

CLOSE SCHOOLS TO SAVE FUEL

the east coast oil and gasoline shortage.

The statement came from R. L. Minckler, PAW director of supply, on the heels of a reduction in gasoline rations; a 10 per cent cut in home fuel oil rations for heating period three; a 25 per cent slash in commercial heating oil supplies and the ban on pleasure driving.

He asserted that "we'd need all the breaks"—in weather, military demands and everything else—to get by for the next 10 weeks as the Atlantic seaboard picture stands at present.

An official of the office of defense transportation said that "pleasure travel via taxicab must be eliminated," and disclosed that action to bring taxicabs under the east coast pleasure driving ban would be taken.

At the same time, an OPA spokesman conceded that plans to accomplish a further reduction in gasoline consumption were in the course of preparation for use in event that the pleasure-driving ban fails to effect the necessary saving.

It was reported previously that Petroleum Administrator Ickes had recommended a cut in "A" gasoline ration in the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

Meantime, the economies committee of the petroleum war council estimated that the prospective eastern deficit — before recent OPA actions cutting fuel oil and gasoline rations—was 345,000 barrels daily for February.

The decrease in the deficit next month is forecast because of anticipated completion of the Texas-Illinois segment of the 24-inch emergency pipeline being built to the east coast.

The OPA actions were estimated to have saved between 125,000 and 150,000 barrels, still leaving a sizeable deficit.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson ruled, meanwhile, that all dealers and secondary suppliers of fuel oil must sell any amount of their supply to any purchaser who presents the necessary coupons. No customer can be considered "favored" above and other, he said, except where a local emergency requires distribution of supplies according to PAW's priority list.

Remove 11 Bodies From Mine After Underground Fire

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Rescue workers early today recovered 11 bodies in the smoke-filled, flame-swept No. 15 mine of the Pursglove Mining company and continue a search for the last of 13 miners killed when trapped by an underground fire.

Frank Robinette, a mine motorman whose motor investigators linked with the blaze, was still missing.

The body of Guy Quinn was located a few hours after the fire trapped 13 of the 78 men working on the night shift Friday morning.

The locale of the fire, almost three miles underground from the mine mouth, was reached 22 hours after a mine motor caught fire and isolated a small section of the mine with 13 men behind it.
